Police Kept On Run To Cope With Jobless

Unemployed Use Tactics Which Baffle Efforts to Quell—Carry Big Black Coffin To No. 10 Downing Street

By CLIFFORD L. DAY

British United Press. Exclusive Cable to the Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Leaders of the National Unemployed Workers' movement have disclosed plans to extend throughout Great Britain a series of spectacular demonstrations that have kept London police on the run for weeks.

More than 50 unemployed, including women, lay down at a corner of Oxford street in the heart of London's west end yesterday on posters inscribed, "Starved, Protested, Arrested," covering themselves with similar posters. Traffic was paralyzed temporarily.

The organization made its greatest bid for official attention by carrying to No. 10 Downing street, residence of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, a big black coffin containing an umbrella similar to the famous umbrella the prime minister has carried on his "appeasement" trips through Europe.

The coffin was labelled: "Appease the unemployed, not the dictators."

The coffin was smashed by police when it was carried to Victoria station on Chamberlain's departure on his visit to Rome.

NOW PARKED

What is left of it is now parked amid typewriters, a telephone, a printing machine and a few chairs in an office occupied by the brains of the winter relief demonstrations.

Wall Hannington, 43, short, fattish, with thick black hair; and Donald Renton, 26, a blond with delicate features and horn-rimmed spectacles, are the "brains" of a score of stunts that forced police to pick up lay-down strikers from the snow in Oxford Circus; climb the 200-foot London Memorial in order to oust a band of demonstrators locked there with a huge banner; break chains by which demonstrators chained themselves to the home of a cabinet minister; and plead with unemployed who produced money and demanded that they be served tea in Ritzy Hotel restaurant.

"We are out to keep the police guessing," Hannington told the United Press after explaining that he was a member of the Communist party, but that the movement was non-political. "The police never know what to expect next."

CLARKE FILES APPEAL AFTER JAIL SENTENCE

Prisoner's Case Expected To Be Heard At February Session

Although serving two years of imprisonment on charges of theft and being in possession of stolen property Robert James "Buster" Clarke, notorious for being the first prisoner to escape from the Edmonton police station, has filed an appeal against conviction.

He is also appealing a sentence of two years less one day sentence imposed on him by Mr. Justice Shepherd on a charge of being in possession of a quantity of flints knowing them to be stolen.

The appeal was filed by S. R. Wallace, counsel for Clarke, and will be heard at the February sittings of the court. In the meantime Clarke is awaiting a hearing in the supreme court on his jail break. It is anticipated this will be disposed of at the forthcoming supreme court sittings which open at the court house Monday.

"Slightly injured Japanese bayonet right shoulder Canton. Brought here American gunboat Mindanao. Camera seized. Wounds unserious."

Sinclair

Sinclair, one of the best-known Canadian newspapermen, left last month for China to write stories for the Star on the Sino-Japanese war. Assignments in the last 10 years have sent Sinclair twice around the world.

Liberal Caucus Voices Approval Of Leadership

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—At conclusion of a caucus of Liberal Senators and members of the Commons today, J. F. Fafard (Lib., Montmagny-L'Islet), caucus chairman, announced the meeting had expressed its entire satisfaction with the present Liberal leadership.

That satisfaction was voiced in a series of speeches from representatives from all the provinces which made the caucus the most enthusiastic in his 22 years experience as a member of parliament, Mr. Fafard said.

It was learned from other sources the dispute between Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Hepburn of Ontario was dealt with only briefly and only in remarks of a conciliatory nature.

Edmonton Rink Has First Loss In South 'Spiel

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—Rinks skipped by J. S. McDiarmid of Calgary and L. R. Gaudin, Mirror, Alta., were the only undefeated quintets in the Calgary bonspiel which began here Monday.

Hal Ritchie of Edmonton and H. J. Wells, Calgary, suffered their first losses in the morning draw. Ritchie's team lost 15-6 to W. W. Rose of Sedgewick in the Imperial Motors event.

T. M. Paterson of High River administered the first setback suffered by H. J. Wells, Calgary. The score was 10-9 in the A.P. Grain competition.

TORONTO, Jan. 18—Police claimed today they had captured Toronto's "note bandit" who for the past two weeks has terrorized a series of hosiery shops.

FIRST OF 250 PLANES READY FOR BRITAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The first of 250 fighting planes ordered by the British Air Ministry from United States manufacturers, a Lockheed bomber with a reputed speed equal to any bomber yet built, was on view at Floyd Bennett airport here today.

The plane arrived her yesterday from the Lockheed aircraft plant, Burbank, Calif., having made the transcontinental trip in an elapsed flying time of 12 hours.

Squadron Commander James Addams of the Royal Air Force who supervised construction arrived on the bomber and said secret tests on the coast "slightly exceeded expectations."

The plane, he said, has a flying range of over 1,700 miles and, except for military adaptation, is a sister ship of the plane in which Howard Hughes, millionaire oilman, encircled the world in three days, 19 hours and 14 minutes last July.

Bill To Abolish Pensions Appeal Board Introduced

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—A bill to abolish the pensions appeal board was introduced in the House of Commons today by Hon. C. G. Power, minister of pensions and national health.

Mr. Power said it was proposed to set up boards of three members to take the place of the present pension courts and appeal board. He said the work of these bodies had been steadily declining. The right of appeal and personal presentation would be preserved.

It was not proposed to re-open any cases already disposed of, but it was expected the new set-up would expedite the disposition of outstanding cases.

N.S. Poet Dies

HALIFAX, Jan. 18—Constance Fairbanks Piers, Nova Scotian poet and wife of Harry Piers, curator of the Provincial museum, died last night. She was 72.

Pledges Loyalty

Here is His Excellency Sidi Ahmed Bey, the Bey of Tunis, in the ceremonial robes he wore to greet Premier Daladier of France, when the latter visited the French protectorate in North Africa. Italy's claims to an interest in Tunis precipitated a near-crisis and M. Daladier's tour was considered a blunt warning to Il Duce. The Bey assured M. Daladier that Tunis had no desire to change the over-lordship of France for that of Fascist Italy.

EDEN RENEWS HIS CALL FOR UNITED FRONT

Yielding To Threats Not Contributing To Lasting Peace

LEAMINGTON, England, Jan. 18—Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, renewed his call last night for national unity in behalf of a "vigorous and united" front against totalitarian threats.

Addressing his Leamington constituents, Mr. Eden aligned himself with the French chamber of deputies president, Edouard Herriot, who last Thursday assured the French lower house that:

"Unanimous in their love of peace, the French are no less unanimous in their determination not to cede to threats. A free people cannot permit its frontiers to be haggled for—it defends them."

He said Herriot's remarks "interprets our feelings at this time."

"If we share Herriot's determination not to yield to threats," Mr. Eden went on, "it is because we understand most clearly that to yield to threats is not to contribute to lasting peace, but merely to make certain that at a later date still further demands will be made on those who yield."

Dutton Faces Committee In 90-Minute Quiz Duel

MEMBERS OF C.I.O. OUSTED BY CONGRESS

Trades and Labor Group Suspends Members By Majority Vote

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—The Executive Council of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has decided to suspend all members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, it was learned here today by The Canadian Press.

By a majority vote of the four executive council members, the C.I.O. members in Canada of the Trades and Labor Congress "will be suspended for convention action," it was stated authoritatively.

CONTROVERSIAL ISSUE

The question of suspending the CIO members has been a controversial issue for the past few months in Canadian labor circles.

At the Houston, Texas, convention of the American Federation of Labor last October, William Green, A. F. of L. president, demanded the Canadian congress oust all affiliates of the CIO and threatened to set up a new congress in Canada unless this was done.

OPEN BREACH

A conference between A. F. of L. and Congress executives was held in Washington in the middle of December at which the matter was discussed. Since the C.I.O.-A. F. of L. dispute broke out in the United States two years ago, leaders of the international movement in Canada have sought to prevent the open breach extending to this country.

Action of the Trades Congress of Canada will affect 17,000 miners in the Dominion, approximately 9,000 of whom are resident in western Canada. The unions affected by the expulsion of C.I.O. affiliates are the United Mine Workers' of America and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union at Winnipeg. Most of the coal mines in Alberta are affiliated with the United Mine Workers' of America, the reorganized International Miners' Union.

Premier Refuses Modify Policy Of Non-Intervention

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Prime Minister Chamberlain refused today to modify Great Britain's policy of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war and supply direct aid to the government forces.

In a letter replying to the request of Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, that parliament be summoned to discuss aid for Spain, the prime minister declined to take any action.

Ex-Albertan's Plan To License Drinkers Gains Him Notoriety

Born and raised in Chipman, Alberta, where his family lived for over 30 years, his father being a well known figure in that community, Samuel Ulan, now operating a beauty salon in Girard, Pennsylvania, is achieving national celebrity in the United States with a plan to license all drinkers.

Mr. Ulan advocates the issuance of a drinker's license similar to a car driver's license, bearing descriptions of height, weight, color of eyes and hair, signature and photograph of the holder. The cost of a license would be $1 a year.

Under his plan, he says, law enforcement officers could get a nice double grip on the drunken driver problem. Suspend the driver's license, as per custom, then suspend his liquor license also for from 30 to 90 days.

"No car, no booze, no problem," says Ulan.

Already, he points out, law abiding citizens have to have personal permits to drive autos, fly airplanes, carry pistols, or exercise other such dangerous liberties, and "it would be perfectly logical to license dangerous critters like unqualified liquor drinkers."

MINORS ARE OUT

Under his plan minors would get no license. Chronic inebriates and the periodic addict would also be on the Indian list. They would have to go back to medical prescriptions for theirs, if any.

And any drinker who goes on relief or Federal aid automatically has his license revoked, because Mr. Ulan fears that, having lost his other means of livelihood, he will "turn to drinking to forget it all."

Drunks who whoop it up in the streets would have 30 days of license suspension to sober them up. Three such binges and their licenses would be permanently out, under the Ulan plan.

Then there's the low-life who would circumvent the law by setting 'em up for unlicensed drinkers. "Have one on me, Ed?" you say genially, and Ed. neglects to mention he's lost his license for "chronic inebriation." As he downs it, you become liable to a fine and Ed. to a stint in the hoosegow.

Mr. Ulan prefers to see his plan enacted by State Legislatures, because he believes local law enforcement suits it best. But he's not selfish about it. If Congress wants to pass it as a Federal law, he says, he'll put no obstacles in its way.

Though only 31, he says he has been around and seen liquor at its worst. Born at Chipman, 45 miles east of Edmonton, of Austro-Rus-

Irregularities in Civic Accounts Inquiry Bared—Denial Made He Ordered Ice-Box Billed as Filing Cabinet

Albert Dutton, city fire chief, told the civic committee probing irregularities in city accounts Tuesday night that he had faced Henry W. Rattenbury, dismissed purchasing agent, with a bill for gasoline obtained by him and charged to the fire department and had received that official's promise that he "would fix everything up."

Still under suspension since action taken by city commissioners when the aldermanic inquiry opened on January 6, Chief Dutton faced 90 minutes of grilling by City Solicitor T. E. Garside and city councillors on discrepancies found by auditors in the accounts of his department.

Appearing jaunty and smiling as he took a seat before the committee, the chief gave quick answers to questions and at times added explosive comments to his replies. Part way through his examination he asked permission to smoke a cigarette, which was granted. The city council chamber was packed with an audience that filled all available standing room, the intent spectators being crowded against the walls.

The chief said he had become suspicious when the gasoline invoice was brought to his attention and, immediately calling Mr. Rattenbury to come and see him, had received an understanding that the purchasing agent would repay the city. He had certified to previous invoices of a similar nature perfunctorily, he said, due to confidence in the efficiency of his accountant, the late David Connell. He conceded that he might have been "a bit sloppy" in this procedure.

The inquiry adjourned after more than three hours to meet again at 8 p.m. Friday, when statements will be heard from officers of the contracting firm of Hulbert and Wilson and the provincial government as to why they made cheques for $538 payable to Secession Move Smothered by U.F.A.

Saskatchewan Resolution Hit Hard in Calgary

Farmer Convention Swings Into Endorsing State Medicine and Seeks Feasibility Of All-Risk Crop Insurance

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—The United Farmers of Alberta annual convention yesterday rejected proposals to consider secession of western provinces from Canada and set Thursday afternoon for consideration of a board of directors' resolution urging cessation of political activity.

Swinging into consideration of resolutions after hearing the presidential address of Robert Gardiner of Excel and various other addresses and reports, the 31-year-old farm organization urged establishment of state medicine and asked the Dominion and province to investigate feasibility of establishing all-risk crop insurance.

The secession question came before the 400 delegates through a resolution from the Vegreville Federal Constituency Association.

MOTION DEFEATED

It urged endorsation of the stand of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, that advisability of secession of the western provinces and formation of an autonomous state within the British Empire be investigated. The motion was defeated without recorded vote.

Mr. Gardiner, chief of the farm body since 1931, declared secession was not the solution of economic ills. And, he added, even if secession were achieved a still greater problem would be unifying opinion on the proper solution to economic ills which would continue to exist despite secession.

Experts "and lots of them" would be required to investigate properly the advisability of secession, said Mr. Gardiner.

HAVE NO FUNDS

If the resolution were passed, the directors would be forced to throw up their hands because the funds were not available to conduct the investigation.

"Do you think western Canada could even come to one mind on the question of secession?" he asked.

10-Year-Old Boy Testifies At Trial Of Harry Heipel

REGINA, Jan. 18.—A ten-year-old boy told a story about Harry Heipel and a revolver in King's bench court here today.

The boy was Victor Jessie, Arcola, the 18th witness called by the crown as it built up its case against Heipel accused of murder of J. A. Kaeser, 65, farmer of Moosomin.

Victor Jessie, too young to be sworn but who said he knew he must tell the truth—said he often visited Heipel at an Arcola farm last fall and at that time Heipel had had a revolver and some .38 ammunition.

Another witness, an Arcola man, told of a revolver being missed from his home and some Estevan people told of seeing Heipel in that town and of how he tried to borrow money on a revolver.

GARDINER IS RE-ELECTED AS U.F.A. LEADER

Will Do Everything In His Power To Advance Organization

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—Norman F. Priestley, vice-president since 1931, was re-elected to that post for his ninth term by the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta here today.

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—Robert Gardiner of Exel was unanimously re-elected president of the United Farmers of Alberta for his ninth consecutive term at the annual convention of the 31-year-old farm body here today.

"I will do everything in my power to advance the United Farmers of Alberta and all that it stands for," he declared in his acceptance speech.

"It is most likely that we will be facing more severe economic problems in the next few years than in the past. We must build up our organization and be an effective force for farmers," he declared.

Election of a vice-president and directors will take place this afternoon. Norman F. Priestley, present vice-president, has held the office for eight terms, being elected to the post the same year as Mr. Gardiner, former member of parliament.

Resolutions asking for a pegged price on all wheat products, especially bread and flour, and urging a price of $1.20 per bushel for wheat at country elevators up to 1,000 bushels per quarter section, were placed before the delegates but further consideration will be given them.

Fay Wray Files Suit For Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—Fay Wray, screen actress born at Cardston, Alta., filed suit for divorce today from scenarist John Monk Saunders. She charged he often declared life with her was too monotonous.

Miss Wray asked custody of Susan Cary, age two. The Saunders were married in Maryland in 1928.

ITALY SEEKING BALKAN HELP FOR HER AXIS

Would Use Hungary and Yugoslavia As Bulwark

ROME, Jan. 18.—Italy began helping Germany line up the Balkan countries for the Rome-Berlin axis last night while Fascists vented their antagonism to France.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister and son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, arranged to leave for Yugoslavia to visit Dr. Milan Stoyadinovich, Yugoslav premier and foreign minister.

Authoritative Italians said the trip was intended largely to complete the elimination of French influence from southeastern Europe, which they said was in "a ferment of revisionism".

Fascists indicated a bloc of Italy, Hungary and Yugoslavia, as an adjunct of the Rome-Berlin axis, was Ciano's aim. It was not improbable, they said, an agreement between Hungary and Yugoslavia would be the first step.

HUNGARIAN OBSTACLE

Italy's diplomatic task was to overcome Hungary's claims on Yugoslavia, which got a slice of Hungarian territory after the great war.

"Italy's Danubian policy is carried out in perfect accord with Berlin," Virginio Gayda, the authoritative commentator, wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia.

Gayda said Italy was offering to free Yugoslavia from dependence upon French and other capital by sending engineers and machinery for construction of public works.

STEPS TO TEST INTEREST ACT ARE NOW TAKEN

Test of the validity of the Provincial Securities Interest Act, 1937, will be made in the supreme court of Alberta. A statement of claim asking for a declaration of the court that the legislation is ultra vires the legislature of the province of Alberta was filed Wednesday morning by George H. Steer, K.C., on behalf of the Independent Order of Foresters, Toronto.

The test case is being presented to the courts under a fiat granted by the government under a recent order-in-council.

In the application for the court declaration it is set out that the Foresters' Order are holders of $373,000 of provincial government bonds, on which arrears of interest totalling $36,245 is due at the original interest face value of the bonds.

Bennett Questions Right To Deny Use Of CBC Network

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett issued a statement here today in which he questioned the right of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to deny George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, use of the CBC network for a series of five speeches.

While the Canadian Broadcasting Act of 1936 vests great powers in the CBC, the ultimate responsibility for the activities of the corporation rests with the government, Mr. Bennett said. The government must approve of the methods adopted by the corporation for transactions of its business.

"I believe it will be agreed that where a public utility has something to sell, and in this instance that something is 'broadcasting time,' any person who can pay the price charged should have the right to buy that commodity except where its use involves a breach of the laws of this country," he continued.

No War Is His Theme

GEN. C. G. DAWES who sounds a new note in the war-clanging world when he says permanent peace is in sight.

Parleys Will Bring Enduring Peace Results

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—General Charles Gates Dawes, who shared the Nobel peace prize with Sir Austin Chamberlain in 1925, predicted today an enduring European peace would emerge from parleys now in progress among Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

He based his belief on experience drawn from service as vice-president of the United States, ambassador to the Court of St. James's, president of the American commission on German reparations, and general purchasing agent of the American expeditionary forces during the great war.

In one of his rare public addresses, prepared for delivery before the Chicago Association of Commerce, General Dawes came to the defence of both the Munich pact and Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain, whom he called "a great and fearless leader."

"European people are now in the play of a tremendous force—the fear and hatred of war," he said. "In the grasp of this force are dictators and dictatorial governments as well as democratic governments, and if the result of its operation is not eventually an enduring peace in Europe, then the world may despair of any civilization hereafter which will not destroy itself by war.

"I believe that out of the negotiations already in progress between the four great powers of Britain, France, Germany and Italy there will finally result an enduring peace, with the might of the four powers pledged to protect it, not simply as a matter of ethics but as a matter of their individual self-interest," he said.

Dutton Faces Long Rapid Fire Grilling Of Civic Inquisitors

Mr. Rattenbury personally for city material.

Intensive study will be given by the committee to information and recommendations from city commissioners, auditors and department heads on ways of improving the city's accounting system. These will be given careful thought and included in the committee's report to council, along with recommendations regarding the fire chief's case.

MAKES DENIAL

The fire chief vociferously denied he had acted dishonestly at any time and, at the conclusion of his testimony, his counsel, Neil D. Maclean, K.C., said, "It is not my place to say what might have been done but I would say that there has been no dishonesty as far as I can see."

He had little training in clerical work, accounting or bookkeeping, Chief Dutton told the committee, and replied to a question by Ald. S Parsons that his qualification for his position, as he understood it, was "to be a firefighter, to fight fires and to protect the public."

The chief could throw no light on the disappearance of the last invoice for Rattenbury's gasoline from his department's files but denied that he had removed it.

THAT ICE-BOX

He had not instructed the Northern Hardware company to bill a $19 ice box to him as a "steel cabinet," he said.

W. S. Thomson, manager of the hardware store, reversed a statement to this effect he had given city officials in December, stating he recalled since that Mr. Rattenbury had given him this instruction regarding the billing.

Chief clerk in the city engineer's department and former accountant, Arthur Spiller said he had passed the substitute invoice, in which the last 100 gallons of Rattenbury gasoline from McColl-Frontenac Oil Co., Ltd., was billed to his department, due to the year-end rush and believing it to be a bill cleaning up small lots of gasoline.

CHIEF 10 YEARS

When he took the witness stand, the fire chief told Mr. Garside he had held his present position for 10 years and had been in the fire department for 28 years, serving overseas for three years.

He was shown eight invoices dealing with gasoline bought from McColl-Frontenac in 105-gallon and 100-gallon lots, charged to the fire department and received by the former purchasing agent, Mr. Rattenbury. He admitted he and Mr. Connell had signed seven of them.

Except for the final one, on December 4, 1937, he had not noticed that they were irregular, he said, depending on his accountant.

Reference to Mr. Connell stirred the chief to say to Mr. Garside, "Why use his name? Why not say 'the accountant?' The man's dead, you know." Mr. Dutton referred to the late accountant throughout his testimony as, "the boy."

"On the fourth of December, 1937, when I found out the boy wasn't there, I saw this invoice for cyclo ethyl gasoline," he testified. "I questioned it but the boy was on his death bed so I called up Rattenbury and told him to come right up to the fire hall. I said, 'We don't get red gas at this station.' He said he would fix it up and I said, 'If there are any more you'd better fix them up, too.'

"He said he would and we got a credit slip. Later I said to Mr. Robertson, the acting accountant, 'This will be the last one of these.'

"YOU'RE LOUSY"

"After this inquiry started I went over to the McColl-Frontenac office and saw Foster, (R. R. Foster, district manager). He said to me, 'Mr. Dutton, you never ordered any ethyl gasoline.' I said to him, 'I can't resurrect a dead man. You're lousy.' Then I walked out."

This was after Mr. Connell had died, on December 13, 1937.

As Mr. Garside sought to continue his questions, the fire chief said, "I can't tell you any more. You're just wasting time."

"Just a minute, perhaps we're not," Mr. Graside said.

Ald. H. J. Macdonald asked chairman E. Brown to remind the fire chief that he should confine his remarks to answering questions.

Garside: "Why did you phone Mr. Rattenbury."

Dutton: "Connell was gone."

Garside: "Yes, but why did you phone Mr. Rattenbury?"

Dutton: "I couldn't get the information I wanted from the acting accountant."

Garside: "Did you ever buy gasoline through Rattenbury?"

Dutton: "No."

Garside: "Then why did you call him?"

Dutton: "I was suspicious."

Garside: "You said, 'This is the last.' Why did you say that?"

GET THEM FIXED UP

Dutton: 'Because I said to Rattenbury that if there were any more he had better get them fixed up."

Garside: "Did Rattenbury say how long this had been going on?"

Dutton: "No."

Garside: "Was there just this one invoice?"

Dutton: "Yes."

Garside: "Did it occur to you to go back into the records?"

Dutton: "No, it didn't."

Garside: "But Captain Ferguson looked them up."

Dutton: "He didn't tell me."

Garside: "Have you any more information on this?"

Dutton: "I don't know any more."

Garside: "Notwithstanding the term 'cyclo ethyl' appeared on the invoices, you didn't question them?"

Dutton: "There are so many kinds of gasoline these days. There is red gas, blue gas, green gas and an amber gas."

Garside: "What kind did you get in 1937 for the fire hall?"

Dutton: "From McColl-Frontenac we got Marathon blue and from the Union Oil company we got an amber gas. But I haven't ordered any gas for the fire department in the last 18 or 20 years."

Asked why he noticed for the first time on December 4, 1937, that the invoice was for cyclo ethyl gasoline, he replied, "The boy was away so I checked closer."

Garside: "You called Rattenbury and you don't say why. What was on the invoice that made you suspect him?"

Dutton: "On account of it being cyclo-ethyl."

Garside: "But you said there were so many kinds of gas. Why did you think about Rattenbury?"

BECAUSE OF QUANTITY

Dutton: "It might have been because it was 100 gallons that I noticed it. I thought about Rattenbury because the other boy was only the acting accountant."

Garside: "Was it because the other boy first came to you that you first called Rattenbury?"

Dutton: "I don't remember."

Asked by Mr. Garside about $3 received by him from a firemen's sport fund for tennis equipment, the chief said he had spent it for the equipment. It had nothing to do with the city, he added.

"Tennis is part of their training. I keep the courts in order out of my appropriations. They give me money from their funds to buy nets and balls and stuff. The boys trust me. There is not one of them would say a word against me. If you think I stole it, I'll give it back," he said emphatically.

When Mr. Garside referred to tennis nets bought with city funds, Chief Dutton said he had obtained these out of his appropriation and used the firemen's fund for additional equipment.

THE ICE BOX

"Well, let's take up the steel cabinet," said Mr. Garside.

"Oh, the celebrated ice box," the chief rejoined with a smile. "The boys at the fire station asked me if I could get them an electric refrigerator. I said no. I went down to the Northern Hardware and got them the cheapest ice box I could. It is on city property. I told the boys the door was open for them to use it. Some of them have used it. It is on the back porch of my quarters. It was bought for the convenience of the men, but I used it too."

The fire chief denied telling the hardware company to invoice it as a "steel cabinet." When he first saw this invoice he did not recognize it and rejected it, he said. When it was referred to him six months later as an ice box he remembered it and certified payment.

Asked about the second bill coming in, he said, "I don't know why. But I went down to Rattenbury in the Civic block and said, 'I know what I am going to do with this ice box—I am going to wrap it around somebody's neck."

"And did you?" the solicitor asked mildly.

"I should," he grinned.

Asked if it was not in an inconvenient place for the firemen, he said it was quite accessible. The men could go out the back door of the fire hall to it or go through his house by his private entrance at any time.

Mr. Garside asked Chief Dutton about 140 75-watt lamps and 20 150-watt lamps which he had been willing to certify to although he did not remember receiving them.

CONTENT TAKE WORD

"I was content to take Rattenbury's word," he said.

Ald. Paterson: "What date did Mr. Dutton tell Comptroller Campbell he was prepared to certify the lamps for payment if Rattenbury said it was okay?"

Mr. Campbell: "July, 1938."

Ald. MacDonald: "When were you suspicious of Rattenbury and the gasoline?"

Dutton: "In December, 1937."

Macdonald: "Why didn't you report it?"

Dutton: "It's the same story—the boy had passed away."

Macdonald: "But Rattenbury hadn't."

Dutton: "Well, I'm not built that way."

Ald. Paterson: "In July of 1938, six months after you had found out that Rattenbury was not honest, you say you were willing to certify if Rattenbury said it was okay."

Dutton: "I'm not a squealer."

Paterson: "Were Connell or Rattenbury around the fire hall after December 2?"

Dutton: "Rattenbury never came around the fire hall and Connell wasn't around after that date."

Paterson: "Can you tell us how the invoice for the gasoline disappeared from the file?"

Dutton: "I didn't touch it."

Ald. Paterson asked the chief if he knew why he was required to sign invoices and was told it was "just a matter of procedure."

A BIT SLOPPY

"Don't you think you were negligent in not checking the invoices?" the alderman asked.

"Yes, maybe a bit sloppy," the fire chief conceded.

"I suggest to you that you sign to vouch for what the accountant already has done and your failure to check is negligence," Ald. Paterson added.

"Maybe," the chief replied.

Ald. Macdonald: "If you found a man in your department was dishonest, what would your procedure be?"

"I would suspend him and report it."

"What about the head of another department?"

"No."

Mayor Fry: "Even if it involved your own department?"

"No I wouldn't tell."

Ald. Paterson: "It was so sudden that you got suspicious of Rattenbury over one invoice."

Dutton: "No, it wasn't sudden."

Ald. Paterson: "Well, you called Rattenbury in and gave him Hall Columbia and then you went down to the McColl-Frontenac office and gave them a dose of the same thing. How long did you talk with Foster and Sterling?"

Dutton: "Not long."

Ald. Macdonald: "Didn't it occur to you that if Rattenbury was dishonest in one thing he might be in others?"

Dutton: "Well, I've known Harry so long and I don't like to knock a man down or kick him when he's down."

QUALIFICATIONS

Ald. Parsons: "What are your qualifications for your job?"

Dutton: "My qualifications are as a fire fighter but are not clerical."

Parsons: "And your job is to organize your forces and to fight fires?"

Dutton: "And to protect the public."

Mr. Maclean: "When you found out there was something wrong with the invoice from McColl-Frontenac, you took it up with Rattenbury. Did you know the city was being cheated?"

Dutton: "I found it out but I told Rattenbury to fix it up and I thought he was paying the city."

Asked by his own counsel when he first knew of the long list of wrong invoices, he said it was in December, 1937, then corrected this to December, 1938.

Maclean: "Had you reasonable grounds to suppose that it had been nipped in the bud in December, 1937, and that Rattenbury was going to fix it up?"

Dutton: "Yes."

At the end of the fire chief's testimony, Mr. Maclean said he did not wish to suggest what course the chief might have taken, but felt there had been no dishonesty on his part.

BILLING INSTRUCTIONS

Mr. Thomson, manager of the retail store of the Northern Hardware, explained returns of electric light bulbs from the stores and works department, saying they were found of too low a voltage for city power. He had since changed his stock.

He told the committee he had billed the fire chief's ice box as a "steel cabinet" on telephoned instructions from Mr. Rattenbury.

Mr. Garside reminded him that three times he had said to J. A. Henderson, city auditor, and Comptroller Campbell that Chief Dutton had made the request regarding the billing.

"I believed that at the time," he said, "but the staff has been helping me refresh my memory since."

Asked by Mr. Garside about a car heater, not billed as such, bought from his store on April 9, 1937, he said this was billed by a clerk as a coal or wood burning heater of the Quebec type. It was picked up by the driver of the fire chief's car. He had no further knowledge of it.

James B. Bishop, master mechanic at the blacksmith shop of the city engineer's department, was questioned regarding the "substitute" invoice with which 100 gallons of gasoline was charged to the city engineer's department.

As master mechanic, in charge of the blacksmith shop, it was his duty to keep a record of gasoline received for and issued to trucks, flushers, sweepers and compressors.

"This invoice came to my shop with two or three others," he said. "As it was for 100 gallons, an unusual quantity, I held it up. I saw the accountant of the engineer's department and told him there was no delivery slip for it. He said to send it up to the office as he had slips to cover it. The accountant was Mr. Spiller. In my book I made a note, 'balance and no delivery slip.' Later I went over my records and thought probably it was covered by some other small items of gas deliveries. It is the only invoice I ever charged without a delivery slip."

Asked by Ald. Parsons if he did all the clerical work of his branch of the department, Mr. Bishop said he did, except for time sheets handled by the shop foreman. This work sometimes took him two or three hours a day.

Arthur Spiller, chief clerk in the engineer's department since April, 1938, and prior to that accountant, recognized the substitute invoice and said there was nothing to show it was a transfer from the fire department.

5,000 INVOICES

Asked to explain why he had signed it, certifying it for payment, he said that in the course of a year his duties as accountant were to deal with some 5,000 invoices, among other work.

"Sometimes I would come across several invoices wrongly charged to our department. When this happened I would take them to the stores and works and he would take care of them and see that they went to the proper departments. Sometimes this went the other way and invoices would be sent to other departments which were meant for us and they would come back to us through the stores and works superintendent," Mr. Spiller said.

"In January of 1938, when I was closing up our 1937 books, there were 31 outstanding or delayed invoices, including this one for the 100 gallons of gasoline, dated December 4. To expedite matters I would phone Mr. Bishop and tell him to sign it and send it up to me as I likely had slips to cover it. I had no slip for this quantity of gasoline, but there were several small amounts not invoiced which totalled more than 100 gallons. I thought they likely covered the bill and I sent it through."

"Then it went through towards the end of the year when you were busy?" Mr. Garside said.

"That is correct," Mr. Spiller answered.

"And you took somebody's word that it was right. Whose word did you take?" the solicitor asked.

"The stores and works department superintendent," said Mr. Spiller.

"You have no actual recollection of asking him?"

"No, but that was the usual way in which I would check a doubtful invoice."

NO SUSPICION

"Did you ever have any suspicion of Mr. Rattenbury?" Ald. Macdonald asked.

"I did not," Mr. Spiller replied. "The first thing I learned was what I read in the papers."

Mr. Spiller was shown a delivery slip for lumber and an invoice which detailed the same type of lumber but a larger number of pieces, the invoice being made out to S. J. Eccles.

The invoice had been signed by the late J. Aitken, a former street foreman and by Mr. Spiller.

"I put this invoice in Aitken's wicket and apparently he has checked as to the quality and quantity of the lumber and hasn't stopped to count the number of pieces by comparison with his delivery ship," Mr. Spiller said.

Mr. Garside addressed the committee: "Apparently the Eccles bill was padded by Mr. Rattenbury to include the Knisley lumber for which the engineer's department never saw the invoice." The lumber in question was reported delivered to A. G. Knisley, a relative of Rattenbury's, living at 12154 93 street. This information was given early in the inquiry on an admission by the dismissed purchasing agent.

Another bill for alfalfa grass seed not received by the city engineer's department, signed for by Spiller and W. Smith, engineer's department foreman, was recognized by Mr. Spiller.

"These two foremen are busy men and they haven't time to fully check all deliveries," he said.

He was asked by Ald. Macdonald if he could suggest a way of improving the system so that a more detailed check could be made on all accounts and purchases. "If you want to lay out another $5,000 in wages to save a possible $200 you can do it," he said.

"Does the city engineer, Mr. Haddow, check every invoice or does he depend on his accountant?" Mr. Maclean asked.

"He goes through them quickly," Mr. Spiller said, "but when one is peculiar he generally spots it. But as a rule he takes the accountant's word that it is correct."

"Is he justified in doing that?" Mr. Maclean asked.

"Yes, I think so. The engineer is a busy man, with the actual engineering work and all his outside work," Mr. Spiller replied.

Mr. Spiller answered questions at length, put by committee members, as to the work of his department, its personnel and systems.

When he left the stand Mr. Garside told the committee that Ald. Paterson had asked for information regarding the system of purchasing for the city and Ald. Macdonald had asked for a statement regarding the amount of business done by the city with the various wholesale houses. He himself had sent out a questionnaire to all departments asking for their methods of approving invoices and other details of their departmental business. This would soon be ready for the committee.

The solicitor informed the committee that he had made inquiries regarding the "substitute" or mystery invoice and found that it was typed by a No. 6 Underwood typewriter. After checking the engineer's, fire and other departments and the McColl-Frontenac offices in Edmonton and Calgary, he had found the only such machine was in the stores and works department. Traces of red in the typing, from the two-colored ribbon, also identified the invoice with this machine. He did not bring evidence on the point.

Ald. Paterson proposed that public hearings of the committee be suspended indefinitely and that the committee receive information from department heads regarding improvements in the accounting system and also certain information from the commissioners on questions they had under advisement. He said this would include a report from Henderson and Kinnaird, auditors for the city.

Ald. Parsons asked that the committee hear from Fred Wilson of the contracting firm of Hulbert and Wilson as to why he had made out cheques for city material to Mr. Rattenbury personally for $228.

Ald. Macdonald asked for appearance of the official of the provincial government who had written a similar cheque for $310 and of the employee of the city treasurer's department who cashed these cheques without questioning them and paid the money to Rattenbury.

The committee adjourned to meet Friday at 8 p.m.

Manion Asks For Correspondence On Radio Controversy

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, asked in the House of Commons Tuesday for production of all correspondence having to do with the controversy between C. George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation over the former's application for use of a CBC network.

Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, said he would make sure all the correspondence he had would be tabled.

POLICE PRESS INQUIRY INTO BOMB BLASTS

Scotland Yard Believes Explosives Result Of Irish Campaign

By GUY RHOADES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Three men were taken to Albany Street police station today as Scotland Yard pressed its investigation into numerous bomb explosions throughout the country yesterday in the belief they might indicate a renewal of the old Irish Republican army feud against the British in northern Ireland.

Almost simultaneously seven men appeared in police court at Manchester and were remanded for a week on charges of being in unlawful possession of explosives.

NO CHARGES LAID

No charges were laid immediately against the three men being questioned in London.

Police reported they were seeking three men who spent Monday night at a small Strand hotel and left early in the morning by taxi, telling the driver they hoped to meet three friends. Hotel employees, who did not recognize any in the rogues' gallery pictures of known agitators, said one of their guests spoke with a strong Scottish accent.

The seven men at Manchester were accused of having possession of six barrels, each containing 100 pounds of potassium chlorate, a large quantity of powdered charcoal, 40 sticks of gelignite, a box of candles, and a solidified composition of paraffin wax and potassium chlorate.

The bombings apparently were aimed mainly at disruption of electrical services. Three sacks of explosives were discovered near an electrical transmission tower alongside the Manchester ship canal at Barton, Lancashire.

Secession

"Would British Columbia join? And if you haven't outlets on the Pacific or at the head of the lakes what are you going to do about it?"

Moving the resolution, J. M. Bentley of North Edmonton declared it was because he was loyal to Canada that he supported the resolution. Disunity existed because eastern Canada did not see the plight of the west in its true light.

The resolution did not endorse secession but only urged its advisability be investigated, he pointed out.

The west had to bring to the attention of the east that unless policies were changed the Canadian farmer was going to become a peasant.

FUTURE POLICY

Future policy, the convention decided, will be discussed Thursday afternoon when the U.F.A. meets in joint session with the United Farm Women of Alberta.

Although future political activity has been debated in previous years, this is the first convention at which the board of directors has submitted a resolution urging cessation of political activity in which the U.F.A. has participated since its organization.

Debate on crop insurance produced remarks from delegates that all-risk crop insurance would be expensive and impracticable.

Brownlee Has Solution To Province Debt Puzzle

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—Joint action by the Dominion and provincial governments in establishing a single debt act with possibly a debt court similar to the bankruptcy court was urged last night by J. E. Brownlee, former premier of Alberta, as a means of solving debt problems.

Addressing the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta, Mr. Brownlee warned the statistical wheat situation was at a dangerous point and might bring about another three, four or five yers of depression prices to further accentuate the debt problem.

CONCENTRATION NEED

Mr. Brownlee estimated the total Alberta farm debt at $317,000,000 which, he said, was conservative. Adjustment of debts under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, federal legislation, and the Debt Adjustment Act, provincial legislation, was too slow and greater concentration on solution of debt problems was essential, he declared.

Acting alone, neither the Dominion nor the province could solve the debt problem because of the legislative limitations under the British North America Act.

AT 3 PER CENT

Together they could bring about an effective and satisfactory solution.

If the Dominion Government could effect refinancing for the Canadian National Railways at a cost approximating three per cent, then the same could be done with respect to farm debts through the Canadian Farm Loan Board. Adjustment of farm debts under the F.C.A.A. and the Provincial Debt Adjustment Act could be expedited.

Women Oppose Methods Of Relief

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—Opposition to reported efforts of Edmonton and Calgary to obtain amendment of the Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare Act was expressed in a resolution adopted by the United Farm Women of Alberta in annual convention here Tuesday.

The resolution declared that the cities were asking the Alberta government to amend the act to necessitate permission from the Attorney-General's Department before action can be taken through the courts by anyone to obtain relief.

Mrs. Marie E. Malloy of Warner, in delivering her presidential address, declared the work of the association was just beginning. Agriculture was in a deplorable state and action to right it was necessary, she said.

"No matter what happens in this convention, no matter what decisions are made in regard to how we tackle the problems facing us, one thing I know is that the farm women of Alberta are not going to sit by quietly and see men and women and children suffer from lack of material things," she said.

MEIGHEN CALLS FOR REVEALING DEFENCE POLICY

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—An attack on the government's "hypocrisy and pretence" that Canada would look after her own defences was coupled by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in the senate yesterday with an earnest plea for frankness in Canada's defence policy.

In the address debate, the Conservative leader denounced the government's failure to mention the word "co-operation" in announcing its intention to increase its defence estimates.

"The leader of the government knows we never did and never can defend ourselves. Why can't we say so out and out."

While he welcomed the proposed increase in defence appropriations, it could only be effective in co-operation with defence policies of Great Britain.

"I beg the government to come out and admit they are constantly in touch with the British admiralty and war office, that they are fitting our defences into the British defences and that they are interested in the security of France," he said.

Senator Meighen said he had been "appalled" at a recent Montreal speech by Senator A. K. Hugesson (Lib., Montreal), intimating that Canada, as a portion of the British empire, would run to the protection of Uncle Sam in case of danger.

Senator Meighen claimed the government had not moved an inch toward curing unemployment since coming into power and it would not cure it the way it was drifting along. The only cure was in reduced government costs and a clear road for industry and finance.

Franz Schubert, one of 14 children, had little education, and the least musical instruction of all the great composers.

Russians To Enforce Rules Against Being Late Going To Work

By STEWART BROWN

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

MOSCOW, Jan. 18.—There was a new, unusual atmosphere of pep and go-getterism in the streets of Moscow today as the government campaign against laxity in labor discipline got into its stride. The shuffle of boots on the sidewalks took on a noticeably swifter tempo. Occasionally a man or woman would break into a trot—usually an official in uniform.

Under the new rules, a person who is late for work four times within a period of two months may be dismissed.

Officials particularly are "on the spot," because workers watch them. P. V. Kudelin, foreman of a factory, was ordered to trial before a people's court today, charged with "malicious violation of labor discipline" by the "Light Cavalry" Labor Brigade of his plant. It appeared that he was accused of being late for work often and protecting a worker who was absent, drunk.

An engineer in position to observe in one big factory told the United Press that foremen already were taking a stricter attitude toward their workers. "They still have some distance to go," he added.

There have been wide repercussions because of the campaign. For instance, workers who were late began complaining that some sidewalks were not cleared of snow, and held up pedestrians; that trolley cars, busses, taxicabs and suburban trains were late. The result was a drive against people who did not sweep their sidewalks and a general campaign against slow vehicles. The newspaper Pravda checked 80 trains on one suburban line and reported that 32 of them were late, costing the commuters a total of 1,250 minutes' time.

ITALY MASSING TROOPS ALONG TUNISIA BORDER

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 18.—Travellers from Italian Libya Tuesday said reinforced Italian troops are establishing new bases all along the Tunisian border.

Tunisia, mentioned in unofficial Italian territorial claims, was the scene of pro-French demonstrations last month when Premier Daladier came from Paris to inspect troops and fortifications.

A stevedore who crossed into Tunisia because he said he was dissatisfied with wages he received in Libya, said four steamships docked at Zuara late in December, landing Italian and native troops.

The stevedore said many of his compatriots have been employed in construction of airplane hangars not far from the Algerian border.

Senate Committee For Rail Problem Requested Again

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—Re-establishment of the Senate committee which investigated the railway problem last year was called for by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, in the course of his speech on the address debate in the Senate Tuesday. He suggested this body continue the probe where it left off last session.

Tuesday night Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, indicated doubt that appointment of the committee would be proceeded with.

Hitler Reported Now Working For Anti-Geneva Front

BERLIN, Jan. 18—Chancellor Hitler was reported last night to be working to construct what might be called an anti-Geneva front of nations bound together by their common opposition to Communism.

The reports circulated after Count Stefan Osaky, Hungarian foreign minister, was said to have promised Hungary's assistance in increasing the number of countries adhering to the German-Italian-Japanese anti-Communist pact, which the Hungarian government said it would join this week.

Rumania and Yugoslavia were said to be the next on Hitler's list for overtures on behalf of the anti-Comintern adherents.

IRREGULARITIES REPORTED FOUND IN WPA CLAIMS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Misrepresentations by numerous firms in the filing of works progress administration claims on the United States government, including false statements with regard to the amount of insurance premiums paid, were believed Tuesday to have cost the New York State insurance fund and private insurance companies millions of dollars.

Officials said payroll audit manipulations in the W.P.A. claims had cost the United States government at least $1,000,000.

Disclosure of the alleged losses were made when Fred Cincotti, president, and the Cincotti Trucking and Contracting Company were indicted for filing false claims. Cincotti and his firm were alleged to have perpetrated frauds totalling $52,000 from 1935 to 1939. Cincotti pleaded not guilty and was released in $1,000 bail.

Seventy arrests have been made.

Gordon, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Sortome of Kimberley, was returning to work at Highland Bell mines near here. Riding in the rear of an ore truck with several companions, he stood up to throw a snowball at his dog running beside the truck, lost his balance and fell under the rear wheels.

An inquest will be held, probably tomorrow. Later the body will be sent to Kimberley for burial.

The Bank of Toronto

Volume of Banks Business Shows Consistent Growth

Deposits and Loans INCREASE

Addresses of President, Mr. John R. Lamb and General Manager Mr. F. H. Marsh, to the Shareholders

Mr. John R. Lamb, President

Gentlemen:

We meet this year under the shadow of the deep loss which the Bank has sustained through the unfortunate and regrettable passing of our former General Manager and Vice-President, Mr. Harvey B. Henwood, whose death occurred in September last.

Mr. Henwood had spent close to 50 years in the Bank's service, occupying the position of General Manager for the last 10 years, an exceptionally difficult period, during which he conducted the affairs of the Bank with marked success. He was a man of an unusually genial and kindly disposition, and you will, I am sure, appreciate how keenly those of us who were associated with him over a period of many years feel his loss.

We regret, also, to have to report the loss, during the past few days, of Colonel W. I. Gear of Montreal. Colonel Gear joined our Board in 1913, 25 years ago, and has always taken a keen interest in the affairs of the Bank. His good judgment and wise counsel will be very much missed.

A year ago, when we were looking ahead to 1938, we had some fear concerning the outlook. That view was justified, because 1938 on the whole was not as good a year as its predecessor. The recession which was in evidence last January continued until about midsummer. The second half of the year brought a fair recovery. Most of the indexes are now up to or ahead of their levels of a year ago, and of course an upward trend, such as we have had in recent months, arouses some optimism regarding the near future.

The most important development of the year, and the one which could not in any way be foreseen, was the European crisis. True enough, there was evidence of new political alliances, and wars persisted in Spain and China, but it was a shock to all British peoples when they found themselves last September on the brink of a possible major war. We do not as yet know whether we should feel relieved, or more concerned than ever before. No one is fully satisfied or at ease, but most people throughout the Empire feel that we at least had competent leadership during the negotiations and that a respite was secured where a panacea was not to be expected. Accordingly, we have to continue in a state of uncertainty, which as yet shows no sign of improvement.

In this age of nationalism and government control, the world situation has direct influence on business. The European crisis came into the picture just when business recovery had started. It caused some liquidation of securities and an international movement of gold. Fortunately, the business and financial world, having recently come through a major depression, was in a highly liquid state and the amount of distress selling under these circumstances could not be large. After the Munich settlement, the revival in the stock markets and in business was resumed.

While the current trend is favorable, one could wish for a greater degree of assurance concerning the long term outlook. So long as dictators seek to trample on personal freedom, and so long as taxation and ultra radical measures continue to consume the strength of our democratic nations, the future must remain cloudy.

Canadian production was fairly active throughout the year but a drop in commodity prices impaired the value of our output. As primary materials, such as we sell, are usually the most susceptible to market changes, the result was a temporary handicap to Canadian economy. A recent analysis of prices of goods which we export, as compared with those which we import showed a decline of 23 per cent. in the former, and a decline of only six per cent. in the latter, from the levels of a year ago. It is also significant that prices of our export goods average only 61 per cent. of their 1926 level, while prices of our imported commodities average about 83 per cent. of their 1926 level. That puts us at a disadvantage in trade. Economy and efficiency are needed to enable us to hold our own at a time like this.

Under the more favorable circumstances of 1935, 1936 and 1937, we had substantial surpluses of exports over imports. We were able to continue this showing in a modified degree in 1938. For the twelve months ended November, our exports were $964 million, while our imports were $686 million, leaving a surplus of $278 million compared with $337 million in the preceding period. Although these are technically known as favorable balances, and though they do demonstrate the ability to sell more to the outside world than we buy from it, we must admit that the reduction in our favorable balance demands economy in our Canadian standards. It prevents us from living as lavishly as we did when we borrowed from the outside world for investment here, and imported more commodities than we sold. In these later years we have been struggling to meet the interest payments due on what is already invested here, and we have succeeded to the extent that there has been some repayment of principal as well. This makes us more independent financially, but at the same time it has marked the close of a period of rapid growth. Such progress as we may be able to finance chiefly through our own savings will of necessity be relatively slow.

The 1938 wheat yield, estimated at over 350 million bushels, of which about 250 million bushels are available for export during the current crop year, was the best in several years, and may be enough to market under existing conditions. There is a considerable world supply at a time when importing nations are buying as little as possible, with the result that prices are low. The Dominion Government has guaranteed to the western farmer minimum prices based on 80 cents per bushel for No. 1 Manitoba Northern at the lakehead, and as this compares with market prices of about 60 cents in recent months, it is probable that a very substantial loss will be incurred by the Government in this bonus to the growers.

The hardships of the western farmer are recognized, but it is felt that this particular plan is not by any means the best that could have been found, inasmuch as it extends the maximum of assistance to those who have the largest crops to sell, but leaves those who have little or no crop, to seek relief. Should extreme conditions continue, perhaps a better plan can be evolved.

In mining, gold output set a new high record. Base metal output increased in quantity but decreased in value. The mining industry as a whole has assumed a major place in our productive economy, and it is fortunate that the distribution is wide, extending from Nova Scotia to Vancouver Island, and towards the Arctic regions of the North. There have also been some important developments by way of increasing our production of iron and steel.

Manufacturing was subject to the difficulties to be expected in such a year. But the greater stress experienced a few years ago had eliminated some of the inefficiencies and also some of the surplus capitalization. The latest decline accordingly did not make serious inroads on our industrial structure.

The inclusion of Canadian plants in the British armament and aircraft program is significant, not so much as regards immediate profit as for the opportunity provided to our industries to show their efficiency and to find a place in a type of business that may be important for several years to come.

Behind the industrial scene, and contributing in some degree to the current rise in business activity, is a program of public borrowing evident in various forms in the leading countries, and constituting a measure of inflation. In Great Britain it is mainly spending for armament beyond the tax-paying ability of that nation and therefore financed in part by loans. In the United States the emphasis has been on social services but armament is now being added, and the increase in the public debt of that country in recent years has been enormous. In Canada we have also had large deficits, though tax sources have been utilized to about the limit. From what we learn of continental countries, there is general abandonment of past precepts regarding the public finances, and a resort to the easiest way. In none of these nations is the end in sight. It may mean ultimate devaluation of debt, conscription of productive resources, or inflation of prices. The uncertainties at least are enough to debar that confidence and long distance planning which has been the basis of growth in the past. The net results are not satisfactory to either the worker or the investor, because they do not permit of expansion of employment or capital investment, which in the past provided the one with a rising standard of living and the other with an increase in security and income.

In the endless discussions concerning the debt problem, many people talk of "monetary reform" as a way out. Exactly what this means is not clear, nor is there any unanimity of thought among its advocates. If it means getting back to the old-fashioned virtues, living within our means and paying our debts, bankers will be all for it and the situation may yet be saved. But we strongly suspect that most of the "reformers" have in mind some kind of money manipulation designed to elude the payment of debt. In other words, it is our old acquaintance, repudiation, under a seemingly respectable name. There is, in our judgment, no excuse in this country to avoid the payment of our obligations, and notwithstanding statements made in some prominent quarters I do not believe that our democracy will deliberately choose this method. Repudiation, instead of being a solution, is a step which brings evils exceeding those of the debt problem as it now stands. This of itself should cause Canadians to seek a reasonable and fair remedy.

Our own business, taking the year as a whole, has been remarkably steady. Both deposits and loans are substantially higher, and net earnings show some improvement, enabling us, after all necessary provisions, to carry forward $363,716.85 to the new year. This sum, of course, includes recoveries from debts previously written off which fortunately, again exceed the total necessary to provide for the losses of the year. We cannot, of course, expect these gains from recoveries to continue indefinitely. You will see that we are allowing surplus earnings, when we are fortunate enough to have them, to accumulate at the credit of Profit and Loss account against the possibility, in fact the probability, of losses on our portfolio when the present cycle of sub-normal rates on government securities passes.

There has been, we are glad to observe, some evidence of increased interest in public affairs. The fact that all taxes come eventually from the people is being gradually realized. But this interest will have to be further stimulated, through the aid of business and political leaders and the press, because governments are still squeezing the utmost from various tax sources, and are also dipping heavily into the accumulated savings of the people. These policies depress our living standards, decrease our markets, and undermine our export trade. Unless the public understands the danger in time, we will meet the same fate that has overtaken many older countries, involving not only a decrease in living standards but the loss of much of the freedom which we now enjoy.

The usual reference in detail to the financial statement will be made by Mr. F. H. Marsh, our new General Manager. Mr. Marsh has served the Bank efficiently as Assistant General Manager during the past 10 years, before which he was Western Superintendent for a number of years. His ability and intimate knowledge of the Bank's affairs, well fit him to assume his new position.

Mr. James L. Carson and Mr. B. S. Vanstone, both of whom have served the Bank very capably for many years, the former as Manager of Montreal Branch, the latter as Chief Supervisor at Head Office, were recently appointed Assistant General Managers.

We have much pleasure in advising you that Mr. Horace T. Hunter, B.A., President of the MacLean Publishing Company Limited, publishers of The Financial Post as well as various trade publications, has consented to join our Board, and his name will be put forward at this meeting.

Mr. Hunter is exceedingly well informed on the financial and business affairs of this country, and we are sure will prove a very useful and agreeable associate.

Mr. F. H. Marsh, General Manager

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:

The 83rd Balance Sheet covering the Bank's operations for the year ending November 30th, 1938, which has been placed before you, reflects what I feel you will consider a satisfactory showing.

Our net profits for the year, after providing for all anticipated contingencies amounted to $1,163,716., an increase of $7,344. over the amount earned during the previous year. After writing off $200,000. against Bank Premises and paying the regular dividend of $600,000., there remained a balance of $363,716. to add to our Profit and Loss account which now stands at $2,005,464.

The principal changes in our Balance Sheet during the year are as follows:

Total Assets

$148,612,365., the highest point in the history of the Bank, are up $8,039,491. Of this amount $96,522,556. or 73.42% of all liabilities to the public consists of cash or of assets readily convertible into cash.

Cash

Our Cash, Bank Balances (including deposits with the Bank of Canada) together with notes and cheques of other banks amount to $29,832,724.

Securities

Are up $2,675,486. and total $64,092,566., 93% of which is invested in high-grade Dominion, Provincial and Municipal bonds, the average maturity of which slightly exceeds five years.

Commercial and Municipal Loans

$46,911,821. as compared with a year ago are up $5,277,000., an increase of 12%.

It is gratifying to note that there has been a better demand for loans on the part of individuals and business concerns during the past year although the aggregate amount is only 38% of our total deposits. Lending money is one of our primary functions and we welcome opportunities to extend credit assistance to business both large and small.

It will be obvious that loans are more profitable than high-grade bonds with present low yields, but we must await increased confidence on the part of business before we can hope to substantially improve this desirable feature of our business.

Bank Premises

$3,397,055. are down $78,948. The appropriation of $200,000. for premises account has enabled us to effect this reduction after providing for expenditures during the year.

Notes in Circulation

Amount to $3,749,714., a decrease of $185,576. for the year. The amount of notes chartered banks are permitted to circulate will be reduced by a further 5% in 1939 and we will not be allowed to issue in excess of 80% of our capital or $4,800,000.

Deposits

$121,401,567. an all time high; of this amount deposits by the public total $119,465,513., an increase for the year of $7,374,258., of which, $4,960,317. is interest-bearing.

Government deposits $1,936,054. are down $355,512.

Branches

During the year we opened two new branches in the mining area, one at Levack, Ontario, the other at Malartic, Quebec. No branches were closed.

Inspection

All branches of the Bank have been inspected by our Inspection Staff during the year and the usual audit of cash, securities and loans at Head Office and Main branches in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver has been made by the shareholders' auditors.

Staff

I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the loyalty, co-operation and consistently good work of the 1,140 men and women who comprise our staff and who by their efficiency and devotion to duty, have contributed their full share to the result of the year's operations.

I cannot close without recording the severe personal loss suffered by me (and I speak as well for the staff generally) in the passing of Mr. Henwood. Not only was he respected and loved by the staff at large, but from day to day I continue to receive from clients of the Bank, expressions of the esteem and affection with which they regarded him. His memory will long remain.

Repeat Warnings

The latest British note to Tokyo confirms the report that there has been a stiffening at London of the attitude toward the aggressor states. The note states bluntly that economic changes instituted in China by force will not be accepted or recognized. It reminds the Japanese authorities that no one signatory has power to abrogate or vary the Nine Power Treaty, which guaranteed China's sovereignty and established the open door policy toward the commerce of all nations.

Foreign Minister Arita replies, as was to be anticipated, that the changes will be instituted anyway.

The point of importance is not so much the contents of the note, or Mr. Arita's reply, as the similarity of tone between the note and those recently sent from Washington. The ground commonly taken is that the Nine Power Treaty is not to be treated like a scrap of paper. The implications can hardly be invisible at Tokyo.

Money Galore

There was more money in the pockets and bank accounts of people in the United States at the end of last year than ever before; more than $6,000,000,000, or $52.42 for every man, woman and child in the country. In addition more than $16,000,000,000 was held in the treasury ready to be put in circulation if and as required.

Still there was widespread unemployment, with tens of thousands more who were employed only because of public relief work projects.

The quantity of money in a country does not of itself create employment or prevent want in the midst of plenty. Create enough money and everybody will be in want or on the verge of it—as in Germany in the unchecked inflation days.

It is the use to which money is put, or the failure to use it, that make the difference between general prosperity and widespread distress.

In Canada, as in the United States, money is now plentiful and relatively cheap. But it is not being made to work as it could and should. And where money is idle men are also idle.

Oust a Government on This?

The new Conservative leader invites parliament to vote want of confidence in the Government. Which is in keeping with tradition and expectation. Parliament won't do it. Which is also in line with custom and expectation.

Why he thinks parliament should do so, Dr. Manion explained in his speech on Monday. It will hardly be contended that he made out a very strong case. There was nothing in the speech to indicate any pronounced swing to the Herridge platform. Nothing in fact to dissociate the speaker from the record of the late Government with which he stands identified.

Dr. Manion wants a parliamentary committee to deal with censorship and other aspects of broadcasting, a proposal that sounds harmless but would provide private broadcasting interests with an opportunity to do some wire-pulling and formula-fixing at the expense of the public service. His contention that "any man who is law-abiding and not advocating revolution" should be allowed to go on the air, is a pretty large order, which if carried into effect would make radio little more than a convenience for speechmakers.

On the subject of the trade agreement with the United States, Dr. Manion seemed to be willing to wound but afraid to strike. He lamented the loss of the British preference on wheat, lamented the reduction of the tariff to "most favored nations," and rather bitterly assailed the idea that any importance attaches to the agreement as making possible more friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain. But he did not say he was opposed, or would vote against implementing the agreement.

In general, Dr. Manion thinks the real charge against the Government is that it does not understand actual conditions existing in Canada. The inference of course is that he and his associates did understand the conditions which existed prior to 1935, which they did nothing to remedy and a good deal to positively aggravate.

The Listeners Should Worry

Radio listeners will not be filled with disappointment at learning that the CBC refused to sell large areas of their time to a Toronto mining-magnate newspaper-owner who wanted to make speeches to them over a network. No doubt the speeches would have been good in their way, but so was the music or other entertainment the listeners heard instead of the speeches.

There is the further consideration that had this request been granted other requests of the kind would also have to be granted, and the CBC would shortly become mainly a forum for wealthy men with "messages"—perhaps of a kind intended to return them fifty or a hundredfold of the cost, from the pockets of the listening public. That was not the purpose for which the CBC was created, nor the idea in mind when the radio listener bought his license. And the radio listener, it is timely to remember, is the party whose interest in the broadcasting service is of more importance than all others combined.

The General Manager of the CBC has issued a statement making clear that no discrimination was shown in refusing this application for permission to monopolize the air which the owners of receiving sets have paid for. The refusal was merely a routine application of the regulations. That being the case, the applicant has no ground for complaint—unless it be that the regulations should be changed so as to permit air time being sold to oratorically inclined gentlemen with long purses, and the listeners correspondingly deprived of regular programs of entertainment and education with the profit motive left out.

There will be no popular clamor for revision along those lines. At election time radio-owners make no protest because men in public life are permitted to bombard them with speeches on public affairs. But between times their appetite for radioed speeches is decidedly off, and for speeches paid for by private parties they have no appetite at any time.

Editorial Notes

Calgary taxpayers have the cheering prospect that their tax-rate this year may be only 48 mills. Last year it was 50. If Edmonton's council want to score heavily, there is a mark for them to shoot at.

Hon. Dr. Manion wants to know, "What are we getting in return (for favored nation treatment) from those dictator countries, more than threats and disturbances to world peace?" Well, what have we been getting from them besides threats in return for piling up tariff walls against their products and dooming them to the curse of economic nationalism?

Japan's Big Order

If the government continues to march in step with the United States government, as it at last appears to be doing, there is good reason to think that Japan will take notice. Not only are Britain and the United States strategically superior to Japan in the Pacific, as a German naval expert recently admitted, but together they control the chief markets for Japanese exports on which her whole precarious economy is based.

If to America and the British Empire are added France and The Netherlands, both signatories of the nine-power treaty who would certainly rally to a determined lead, Japan's position must appear desperate.—Manchester Guardian.

The Irony of It

As all the world knows, Japan has now been engaged for several years with undeclared "war" with China. Nippon, hoping to escape the consequences of formally announcing its intentions, and thus formally outlawing itself from those nations that signed the Kellogg-Briand pact, merely provoked fighting in Chinese territory under conditions that were supposed to prove satisfactory to itself. Ironically enough, Japan is just now reaping a little bit of sour fruit because of its policy of "non-declaration."

The point is that if there is no declaration, then there is legally no war; and if there is legally no war, then there are legally no neutral nations; and if there are no neutral nations, then the United States feels that its famous neutrality acts do not apply! The upshot is that, working on such premises, the United Sattes found her way clear last month to lending $25,000,000 to China! Now whose face is red!!!—Winnipeg Free Press.

How to End Unemployment

They tell us, the apologists for the Nazi and Fascist and Communist cults, that at least there are jobs for everybody under those systems. A Berlin despatch tells us how that blessing is achieved.

Under a new order all unmarried women between 18 and 25 years, if they are physically fit, are required to put in a year of labor service on farms or in households, and there is no mention of pay. That is incidental. Girls under 25 seeking employment in business or the civil service must be able to produce evidence of at least a year's service in farm work or domestic service.

And if anybody refuses to obey, the Nazi regime has harsh punishment. The despatches say 400,000 German girls will be put to work under this order—and we shall be told that there is a job for everybody in Germany, that the Nazi system can't be so bad! Just as we used to hear from every tourist that Mussolini must be a fine fellow because since his advent the Italian trains were running on time!

Through the ruthless measures of the dictatorships unemployment in Canada could be eliminated almost over night. Call up all the young men and girls for forced labor on farms, on highways, in the kitchens, and if any object send them along to the concentration camps. Thus, and easily, the thing could be done. But at what a cost in moral values!—Ottawa Journal.

Financial

THE BANK OF TORONTO

Speaking at the annual meeting of shareholders of the Bank, held in Toronto, Mr. John R. Lamb, president, said:

In this age of nationalism and government control, the world situation has direct influence on business. The European crisis came into the picture just when business recovery had started. It caused some liquidation of securities and an international movement of gold. Fortunately, the business and financial world, having recently come through a major depression, was in a highly liquid state and the amount of distress selling under these circumstances could not be large. After the Munich settlement, the revival in the stock markets and in business was resumed.

While the current trend is favorable, one could wish for a greater degree of assurance concerning the long term outlook. So long as dictators seek to trample on personal freedom, and so long as taxation and ultra radical measures continue to consume the strength of our democratic nations, the future must remain cloudy.

Canadian production was fairly active throughout the year but a drop in commodity prices impaired the value of our output. As primary materials, such as we sell, are usually the most susceptible to market changes, the result was a temporary handicap to Canadian economy.

Mr. F. H. Marsh, general manager, presented the balance sheet showing net profits for the year, after providing for all anticipated contingencies amounted to $1,163,716, an increase of $7,344 over the amount earned during the previous year. After writing off $200,000 against Bank Premises and paying the regular dividend of $600,000, there remained a balance of $363,716 to add to Profit and Loss account which now stands at $2,005,464.

Total assets at $148,612,365, the highest point in the history of the Bank, are up $8,039,491. Of this amount $96,522,556 or 73.42% of all liabilities to the public consists of cash or of assets readily convertible into cash.

IN A KOREAN TRAIN

Many years ago, before oriental railways had been fully modernized, I had to make, in winter, the long journey between Seoul and Pyeng Yang, in an unheated train. A farm-raised missionary came to my help, with the suggestion that I put a lighted lantern between my feet, and wrap up in a blanket. So I made the trip in reasonable comfort.

That was to me a new application of the Scripture, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet." God's word is not only for guidance, but also helps through the hard places.

A little heat, rightly placed, may provide a great warmth. So the lowliest life may shed a constant influence in the most limited environment.

For the word that enlightens and warms and sustains, we praise Thee today, O Lord. May it ever be with us on life's journeyings. Amen.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

For present difficulties, people should not blame any government. "If you want to know who is to blame, go home and look in the mirror."—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, at Edmonton.

* * *

Mr. Bennett must have thought well of his advice, for he repeated it a few days later in an address at Vancouver, urging his hearers to hold fast to Confederation and the sanctity of debt obligations.

I TAKE A PEEP IN THE MIRROR

I've just taken Mr. Bennett's advice and had a good look at myself in the mirror to find out in what way I am responsible for the slow growth of Canada's population, its uneven distribution of rewards, its growing unemployment and unrest. If it's my fault, I'll shoulder the blame.

What do I see in the mirror? The face of a man not nearly so well upholstered and self-satisfied as that of the Honorable Richard Bedford Bennett. I see a man who, believing that Canada was destined to be a country of growth and prosperity married on a reporter's wage, brought up a family and in multiplying himself several fold gave hostages to the tariff barons of Canada. I see the face of a man who, in default of employment by their natural providers, has long found himself compelled to keep at work to provide food, clothing and shelter for his children's children. That's something no millionaire bachelor will see in his mirror.

* * *

IT'S NO FAULT OF MINE, MR. B.

The man who looks at me from the mirror has never failed to take an interest in the policies and administration of his country. Back in 1911, when Canada had opportunity to engage in reciprocal trade with United States, I toiled with voice and pen to have my country accept the economies and advantages of trade and population that would flow from such a pact. Mr. Bennett at that time, I recall as the author and trumpeter of the successful slogan "No truck nor trade with the Yankees" (except we'll let them protect our shores).

True, the defeat of reciprocity ensured continuance of high profits for the moguls in every line from textiles to matches, but it dealt hardly with those who must live on wages and trust to find work. As a point of argument, I believe even the textile and match moguls, et el., would have profited more by having Canada multiply its trade and population than by keeping it as a reserve in which the ordinary man must pay more for everything he needs to buy, and accept less for everything he has to sell.

* * *

WHY WHITEWASH THE GOVERNMENTS?

Why should governments in Canada be exempt from blame for conditions? (I am not referring to provincial governments, which are only glorified town councils). They have sole control of trade policies, and of finance. We have a country rich in natural resources, fronting on two oceans, its northern frontier held inviolate by the ice king and its southern frontier secured by a friendly neighbor. We lack neither manhood, technical knowledge, power nor transportation. Only government policies have held Canada in leading strings. Trade—even with our nearest neighbor—has been purposely restricted for selfish purposes. In national finance a policy of money shortage has been pursued, creating colossal burdens of interest-bearing debt, when the national credit was available for ample and cost-less use. And now we are asked to believe that governments are not responsible for conditions caused by their policies, and are bade to look in our mirrors to find the culprits.

* * *

WHICH CITIZEN IS THE BETTER?

No question that Canada is facing unrest, and that people are demanding change. Mr. Bennett was met at Vancouver by a Socialist mayor. The photograph of the handclasp between the retiring Tory and the incoming young radical, portrays the change that is taking place. What causes nations to change and empires to decay? A few days ago at Brown University, the American Philological Association and the Archaelogical Institute of America met in joint session to make answer. Here it is, in the language of Prof. Oldfather, who presided:

"A gross maldistribution of wealth and consequently of political and social power was the factor responsible for the destruction of Greek and Roman civilization. The ruling classes sought to freeze the social order in which they enjoyed certain privileges . . . This siutation proved equally damaging to both the privileged and the under-privileged. The privileged sat tight, interfering with further organic development, while the under-privileged were deprived of effecting any change at all.

"Any such permanent gross maldistribution of wealth is bound to be ruinous to any civilization—a fact which modern nations might seriously consider if they wish to discover the key to the solution of their troubles."

With all respect to Rt. Hon. Mr. Bennett, the voice of history says that the best and wisest citizens are not those who accumulate vast wealth for themselves and use their power to keep the state compressed within the narrow framework of its origin, but those who are content with a modest division of created wealth and who seek to have the state continually readjust itself to the changing needs and larger opportunities that Time brings.

200 Years of Government

The Cabinet has been meeting at No. 10 Downing Street for more than 200 years. George II offered the house in 1731 to Sir Robert Walpole, who accepted it, not for his private use, but as a permanent official home for the First Lord of the Treasury; in September, 1735, he moved in from his house in St. James's Square.

And in 1935, on the second centenary of that event, The Times remarked that to recount what had passed within the Cabinet Room at No. 10, "would be to tell the history of England."

It is a story, the writer added, "that could be told in its own domestic terms only as two centuries of men talking, usually round a table."—London Times.

"Battleships, tanks, guns and rifles are no good unless you have men."—Duke of Devonshire, Dominions Under-Secretary.

Appreciation

Editor, Bulletin: Will you please allow us enough of your valuable space in which to express our deep appreciation of the support given the Edmonton Museum of Arts by many of the leading Business and Professional Firms in the city.

This assistance has made it possible to carry on in spite of very great odds; without it, it would be necessary to abandon much of the splendid educational work that is being done.

The help thus given merits the gratitude of every citizen of Edmonton, since every thinking person now knows the part the Museum plays in the educational, the aesthetic and the economic life of the community, and how necessary it has become.

Government Failure

Editor, Bulletin: May I be permitted to express a few opinions, upon, that degrading, demoralizing thing called relief. I feel strongly about this matter as nothing is being done to relieve unemployment by any of our governments and more particularly nothing is being done by the provincial government.

The reliefer, I have found, is often severely and wrongly criticized. Those receiving relief find themselves surrounded by hideous poverty, by hideous ugliness, by semi-starvation. It is inevitable that they should be strongly moved by all this. The emotions of man are stirred more quickly than man's intelligence. Well meaning people that spend so much time and money to help charitable works, thinking they are going to remedy the evils they see are merely prolonging this evil disease. Indeed, their remedies are part of the disease. In my opinion, charity or relief degrades and demoralizes. The proper aim is to reconstruct society on such a basis that poverty will be impossible. That is what all people must strive for.

We are often told that we poor are grateful for charity and relief. Some of them are, no doubt, but the best amongst the poor are never grateful. They are ungrateful, discontented, disobedient and rebellious, and rightly so. Relief they feel to be a ridiculously inadequate mode of partial restitution, or a sentimental dole, usually accompanied by some impertinent attempt to tyrannize over their private lives. Why should they be grateful for crumbs when they should have whole loaves?

Disobedience, in the eyes of anyone who has read history, is man's original virtue. It is through disobedience that progress has been made, and through rebellion. A poor man who is ungrateful, discontented and rebellious is a real personality, and has much in him. As for the virtuous poor, one can pity them, of course, but one cannot possibly admire them. They have sold their birthright for very bad pottage. They must also be extraordinarily stupid. It is almost incredible to me how a man whose life is marred and made hideous by such inhumanity can possibly acquiesce in its continuance. Misery and poverty are so absolutely degrading and exercise such a paralysing effect over the nature of men, that no class is really conscious of its own suffering.

There should be no form of compulsion exercised over any man. It is only in voluntary associations that man will bring out the finest that is in him. I do not wish to take up any more space, except to say that the provincial government has dismally failed to carry out its promises and, therefore, it must perish as must all governments that fail to lift the common man to a higher plane in life.

"I have just returned from the session. Taking advantage of the law restricting the use of the French language, I delivered my speech in both languages."

The above words were written by Lord Elgin on Jan. 18, 1849, 90 years ago today and record an incident of the highest importance to Canada, because ever since the French language has been on a parity with the English in all parliamentary debates and documents, the practice thus inaugurated being continued to the dominion parliament after Confederation.

Lord Elgin had urged the repeal of the clause in the act uniting Lower and Upper Canada which forbade the use of French as an official language upon the colonial secretary several times.

As a result of this advice the imperial parliament passed a bill repealing the clause in the Union Act and this legalized the official use of French in Canada for all time. Lord Elgin gets the official credit for this act of national unity, but, of course, the necessary legislation which followed in Canada was put through by Lafontaine and Baldwin, who thus reconciled the Lower Canadians to the Union and paved the way for that co-operation which enabled George Cartier to work with John A. Macdonald and bring about Confederation.

Mussolini glared at the other three players and thundered: "And I, Benito Mussolini, bid one club."

Grandi said, "I pass."

Ciano said, "I pass."

And the King? Well, he looked at his hand wistfully, and said: "Me too."

RED DEER, Jan. 18 — Truck which struck one in which George Jarvis was riding when he was killed in a highway crash here on January 10, "had defective brakes, loose steering and a dirty windshield, causing poor vision," a coroner's jury decided here Monday.

One truck, a light delivery model, in which Jarvis was travelling, was being driven by A. Morigeau, they decided. The other truck was driven by David Larrett. It was much heavier. Larrett testified that the other truck was travelling about 55 miles per hour and had suddenly swerved in front of him.

Lone Spanish Bomber Stops 13 Rebel Tanks: Captures Four Italians

By ROBERT OKIN
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BARCELONA, Jan. 18.—The spirits of people of Barcelona rebounded Tuesday from the gloom induced after Tarragona's fall and became more optimistic. Their hearts were warmed when they heard the praises sung of "Dinamitero" Celestino Moreno.

Though wounded, it was reported from the front that Celestino went out single-handed with bombs and halted 13 enemy tanks, blowing up two, and captured four Italian officers.

Any siege of Barcelona seemed farther removed as the government announced the southern defence line was stabilized after the retirement from Tarragona. In the north, the Government said the rough terrain would make hard going for the Insurgents.

They became happier after thinking things through, because:

1—Insurgent General Franco's men still are a long way off, comparatively speaking, and still have a hard fight ahead of them.

2—Government militiamen were putting up a solid defence.

3—France might help.

4—The city food supply commission said there was enough food on hand—chick peas, rice, lentils, oil, canned milk for children, special food for sick children.

5—The quick answer of anti-aircraft guns and Government planes when bombers have raided the city in the last few days made them more confident.

CANADA HAS GOOD BRAND RADIO TUBES

House-to-House Canvass Proves Canadian Product Is Outstanding

TORONTO, Jan. 18—A house-to-house canvass of more than a thousand radio owners in the principal cities across Canada, conducted as a sequel to the recent Alberta government inquiry into radio tube industry, has produced data overwhelmingly in favor of Canadian-made tubes, and startlingly at variance with evidence offered at the probe.

The survey, carried out by Canadian Facts, Registered, was completely impartial and designed only as a check upon testimony at the probe which had purported to show that Canadian tubes were inferior to the imported American product. Its result establishes beyond doubt the high quality and long life of the Dominion-made tubes. Absolutely no evidence was uncovered during the canvass to support the claims of U.S. tube importers that Canadian manufacturers were deliberately shortening the life of their product to stimulate sales.

ALBERTA FACTS

One of the most striking facts elicited by the survey was that in Alberta—where imported U.S. tubes find their main Canadian market—the average tube-life is considerably shorter than in other Provinces where the great majority of tubes are Canadian-made.

During the Alberta inquiry, Mr. Don Kepler of Calgary, an importer of American tubes, was quoted as having testified that American-made tubes had an average life of 2,000 hours, and that in his opinion the average life of Canadian tubes was about one-third of that figure.

Contrary to this testimony, Canadian Facts, Registered, announces that the survey has revealed the average life of a Canadian tube to be approximately 4,141 hours—or more than twice the life which Mr. Kepler estimated for the American product.

Furthermore, official records reveal that in 1937, replacement tube sales in Canada were on a ratio of less than one tube per set, as compared to a ratio of 1.2 tubes per set in the United States.

COVERED WIDE FIELD

No less than 9,286 tubes were investigated individually in the course of the thorough survey of Canadian radios, as to length of service, efficiency and general performance. From this extensive field of observation, the canvassers were able to report that the average field of Canadian tubes is four years and three months. Special attention is directed to this figure in the survey report, in view of the evidence of one Calgary radio service man at the inquiry, to the effect that "only 60 per cent of the tubes sold here today will give a full year's service."

Before the Alberta inquiry was instituted, impressive figures in support of the case of the Canadian radio tube manufacturers were placed before the Dominion tariff board last July, when the following tribute was written into the records of the tariff board: "The statement has been made that the Canadian radio set is the best average set made in the world. As the radio tube is by far the most complicated and important part of any set, it follows that Canadian tubes must also take their place in that category."

CRITICISM REFUTED

The results of the independent survey are now being considered by the leading radio tube manufacturers of the Dominion, who point out that the other criticism levelled against them at the Alberta inquiry—on the question of price—can be refuted as readily and completely as the quality charges, in their opinion, were answered by the result of the survey.

They draw attention to the fact that replacement tube sales in the United States are estimated at forty millions, as against 1 1-3 millians in Canada, thus establishing a difference in production volume which they consider to explain adequately the existing margin between the price of U.S. and Canadian radio tubes. Nevertheless, the manufacturers agree, the price in Canada is substantially lower than that prevailing in countries where corresponding volume of production exists.

Housewives Urged To Store Up Food In Case Of Need

BECKENHAM, Kent, England, Jan. 18.—Sir Auckland Geddes in a speech last night urged housewives of Great Britain to store a little food now in case the government's arrangements for feeding the population failed in an emergency.

He also suggested they keep a reserve supply of water in their houses.

Sir Auckland, adviser to Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal in charge of civilian defence, said a ministry of national service already exists in skeleton form.

A minister—"a young and active man"—has already been chosen to head it. He did not say whom.

YOUTH TRAINING WILL CONTINUE SAYS MINISTER

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, announced Tuesday the government will introduce legislation this session to provide for continuation of the youth training program for three more years.

The announcement was made before the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Conference which opened a three-day meeting here Tuesday.

The minister said it had been considered advisable to begin operations under the plan in a modest way and measure progress as it proceeded. Now, after two years, it had reached such a degree of successful operation in the various provinces it was felt provision for a longer period should be made.

No Funds Asked Yet To Fortify Isle Of Guam

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—President Roosevelt raised doubt Tuesday that United States congress will be asked for funds this year to fortify Guam, United States island territory about 1,500 miles from Tokyo.

Taking cognizance of Japanese criticism of a naval board's proposal to strengthen the island, he indicated the criticism was premature.

No funds for the purpose have yet been asked, he said, and the official position on the matter will not be disclosed until naval experts appear before congressional committees on the administration's $552,000,000 program to expand national defences.

Sanctuaries For Wild Life Urged By Bird Officer

OTTAWA, Jan. 18. — Wild life sanctuaries especially for waterfowl were urged Tuesday by Dr. Harrison F. Lewis, chief Dominion government migratory bird officer for Ontario and Quebec, in addressing an interprovincial conference of game conservationists here.

J. A. Munro, Dominion migratory bird officer for British Columbia, described efforts being made to save the trumpeter swan, largest of Canadian waterfowl, from extinction. Conservation efforts, he believed, would be successful.

Two Have Escape As Horse Bolts Into Fast Train

WABAMUN, Jan. 17—Frightened by a train, a horse which was being driver along the road paralleling the track near here, bolted Monday, and when it came to the point where the road and the track crossed, ran into the side of the train. Although the sleigh it was pulling was demolished, the two occupants were uninjured and the horse escaped with the loss of a little hide.

TOP-OF-STOVE CUSTARDS

You can, if you like, make very satisfactory custards without heating your oven. Use your customary recipe, place the custard cups in a low pan with enough hot water to reach at least half way up the cups, cover, and cook over a very low flame until a silver knife inserted in the custard comes out clean.

Well qualified for his task, through years of study and research into social relationships of divergent racial tendencies making up our civilization today, Rev. Silcox will bring to the address a wealth of information and experience.

At present Mr. Silcox is general secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada, the co-operative body of Protestant communions in Canada in the field of social work. He is, too, a member of the executive of the League of Nations Society of Canada, on the program committee of the Canadian Institute on Economics and Politics and many other bodies dealing with the betterment of mankind.

AUTHOR OF NOTE

An author of note, as well as a social worker, Mr. Silcox has published many articles and books on his favorite subject—the intermingling of different races and creeds in our cosmopolitan life today. He is a regular contributor to the secular and religious press, and a member of various bookmen's societies in the dominion.

Rev. Silcox was born in Embro, Zorra township, Ontario, educated in Paris, Ontario, where he received public and high school training, and later at the University of Toronto. He continued studies at Brown and Harvard universities. For eleven years he held active pastorates in Congregational churches in New England and New York city, but since 1925 has devoted himself to social and religious research.

STUDIED ABROAD

Having studied abroad and travelled in many countries during his early career, he is well qualified to bring a learned and dispassionate review of the present-day tendency in various countries of Europe—that of maltreating Jewish folk and deprecating their contribution to our present civilization.

Invited to sat at the head table with the guest of honor, Mr. Silcox and Mrs. Gordon E. Swallow, president of the club, are Dr. and Mrs. W. A. R. Kerr, Mrs. F. C. Casselman, Mrs. W. J. Melrose, Mrs. Chester D. Gainer and Mrs. P. S. Warren.

W.M.S. Views 25 Years Of Service

QUARTER of a century of varied activity along the lines of missionary endeavor, at home and abroad was viewed in retrospect by members of the Edmonton Presbyterial, Women's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church in Canada on Tuesday, when, foregathering in the lecture hall of First Presbyterian church for the 25th annual meeting, they found their number grown from a bare few in those early years to almost 300 members at the present time.

Mrs. D. G. McQneen, a charter member of the society and honorary president was present and spoke briefly of the growth of the W.M.S. through 25 years.

100 DELEGATES

Approximately 100 delegates, including several from out-of-town were in attendance and were welcomed by Mrs. Ross K. Cameron, Mrs. Waler replied for the delegates.

Pausing in retrospect over the past year's work members found reports of secretaries and group conveners to be very successful and encouraging and at the election of officers asked Mrs. N. B. Moors to retain the position of president, which she has filled so capably during the past year.

Enjoyable features of the afternoon and evening sessions were enlightening and interesting addresses by Miss Hildur Hermanson, who is carrying on a great part of their missionary work in Formosa, where she is a nurse in the Mackay Memorial hospital, in Taihoku, capital city of Formosa.

WORK IN FORMOSA

Miss Hermanson, who left early Wednesday morning en route back to Formosa after being on furlough, related, in a delightfully informal way, some of her everyday experiences, stressing especially the eager way in which patients listen to the Christian word, which is taught to them in the hospital.

"Hospital teaching is very effective," Miss Hermanson remarked "for patients have the time to listen and in addition see the wonderful work going on about them."

Dealing particularly with the women of Formosa in her afternoon address, Miss Hermanson stated that bible schools have been organized for their benefit. Here they are taught the Christian religion, and later go about among their own people, organizing women's and girl's groups and telling of the wonderful things they have learned. In conjunction with the school a kindergarten is held for the kiddies, who in their own way do a very great deal in bringing the Christian religion into the homes.

EAGER TO HEAR

Missionaries are unable to go among the aboriginal group, Miss Hermanson continued and one instance which would warm the heart of any missionary worker is when several aboriginals, hearing of the Christian religion, walked many miles to learn more of it. Now they come regularly to services and are eager to spread the word among their people.

At the the evening session Miss Hermanson dealt more generally with the work in Formosa, in the church and in the hospital, brightening her recital with humorous stories and incidents of life in that far-away land.

Mrs. H. Sykes, provincial president of the W.M.S. was an interesting guest speaker during the afternoon and in an inspirational address urged members to make the coming year one of organization, in which all societies will be built up and strengthened and in which co-operation and loyalty towards one's own society will exist among members.

$1,350 RAISED

Treasurer's report by Mrs. A. B. McKenzie revealed that over $1,350 had ben contributed to missions during the year from the combined nine auxiliaries and 11 associated societies.

Mrs. C. Oscroft's report on mission bands contained the information that four new mission bands were organized during the past year.

Four senior life memberships and one junior life membership in the W.M.S. were awarded. Over 2,175 pounds of literature were sent to out-of-town points it was revealed in the report of the library secretary, Mrs. J. C. McTavish.

Glad tidings report of Mrs. R. Chambers showed that subscriptions to the missionary monthly totaled 187. Home helpers assisting with W.M.S. work number 187, Mrs. M. J. Munroe stated in her Home helpers report.

Devotionals were taken during the afternoon by Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Gillies. Miss Cora Sutter was soloist.

Supper was served at six o'clock to delegates and following which brief addresses were heard from Mrs. H. Sykes, Rev. Ross Cameron, Dr. F. D. Roxburgh, minister of St. Andrew's church, Rev. R. J. Burton, minister of Strathcona church and Mr. G. Evans, student minister at Killam. Mrs. N. B. Moors presided.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

ARRID

According To Culbertson

Despite the fact that the first annual bridge examination, held in 1937, contained many questions which involved forcing passes, and many others that involved trap passes, these particular bidding coups still elude the public at large. Given a good hand, the average player can no more resist making a series of bids on it than he can resist a chance to pick up the proverbial pocketbook on April Fool's day. This trait was proved anew by several questions of the recent second annual examination. Question 41 was one of them:

Only East-West are vulnerable. North-South have 40 part-score. The bidding proceeds:

South	West	North	East
1 diam.	Pass	2 clubs	2 spades

You are South and hold:

♠ 10 6 3 ♥ A Q 9 ♦ K Q J 9 8 ♣ 6 2

What call do you make and why?

The correct answer was that South should pass. Thousands of examinees gave three diamonds as South's correct action, and hundreds of them backed this bid up by elaborating that they would thus try to cash in on their part-score. The official answer, which appeared a week after the examination, pointed out that South's partner, North, was just as much aware of the score as was South and that he hardly would pass to two spades unless he had a miserable hand. The main point involved was that South should not rob North of the opportunity to double the vulnerable two spade bid which might well have been a "push" based on East's desperate effort to forestall the opponents' going game in a low contract. Such a pass on South's part is the epitome of generalship and strategy, being both technically and psychologically sound. These part-score situations present wonderful opportunities for the application of pure logic and I commend them to readers' attention.

The answers that reached me on this question lined up as follows: 12,867 bid three diamonds; 7,145 correctly passed; 28 brave souls doubled.

Incidentally a 20 point demerit was given for any bid other than a pass. This demerit, of course, also applied to a double which was, to put it mildly, a bit aggressive.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diam.	1 heart	1 no tr'p	Pass
2 no tr'p	Pass	3 no tr'p	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the top card of his partner's suit, the heart eight. A low card was played from dummy, and East put up the king. East returned a heart which dummy's ace won. The diamond finesse was successfully negotiated and then the declarer knocked out the club ace. West had no heart left to return, hence declarer could concede the spade ace at his own leisure and claim ten tricks.

East and West sighed and agreed that nothing could have been done about this lost rubber. As it happened, they probably were wrong.

If East had not put up the heart king at the first trick declarer later would have had to make a sheer guess for the fulfillment of his contract. Just suppose East played the heart nine or jack as an encouraging signal. Declarer would win with the ten or queen, but if he then guessed to lead a club (instead of a spade), West could hop up with the club ace and return his remaining heart. East's heart suit thus would be established before the spade ace was removed and, although declarer could run four diamonds, two clubs, and two hearts, he never could win a spade trick. Of course, if declarer, after winning the first heart trick, guessed to knock out the spade ace, the defenders would be helpless, but at least they would have done their best.

Inspiration For Peck's Bad Boy Dies At Age Of 77

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 18.—Edward J. Watson, 77, inspiration for "Peck's Bad Boy," died here Tuesday. It was the pranks, thought up by young Edward Watson as a messenger boy, that inspired George W. Peck, editor of the old weekly Peck's Sun, and one time mayor and governor, to write a series of sketches about the irrepressible little boy who kept his parents in hot water.

Vegetable Dainties Add Vitamins To Tea Menu

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Even modern tea parties think of their vitamins. The idea seems to be to keep your tea menu balanced rather than too starchy. Buttered nut bread, tiny cakes, yes—BUT also a few crisp and gardeny tidbits such as chopped raw vegetable sandwiches, tiny lettuce cups filled with tender fruit or vegetables and even fresh pineapple strips, are served now with the steaming pot of afternoon tea.

Rolled sandwiches with layers of fresh fruit or fresh vegetables are delicious and effective.

Remove crusts from loaf of wholewheat bread. Then slice lengthwise. Spread each slice very lightly with smooth cream cheese to which a little chopped parsley and minced celery leaves have been added.

Have 4 different kinds of chopped green peas, and water cress, and grated yellow squash. Spread a line of each vegetable diagonally across the long slice of bread spread with cheese. Then roll up bread, seal edges with more cream cheese, wrap in wax paper and chill.

SLICE INTO PINWHEELS

Slice into colorful and vitamin rich pinwheels for the tea party. These will surprise you with their fresh delicacy and their beautiful appearance.

Long golden carrots, strips of stuffed celery and radishes can be turned into very gay teatime tidbits. Trim and scrape a long slender carrot, making it of even thickness the entire length. Spread a long thin slice of wholewheat bread lightly with smooth cream cheese flavored with herbs. Place the carrot along one edge, then roll the bread around it, sealing the edges with more cream cheese.

Wrap securely in wax paper. Chill well. Serve into thin rings with a golden disc of carrot in the center.

FRUIT TIDBITS

For your tray of fruit tidbits for tea, scoop out melon balls and roll them in finely chopped pistachio nuts, roll perfect sections of oranges in freshly grated coconut, stuff kumquats with walnuts, and roll perfect grapefruit sections in ground almonds.

For your friends who avoid tea parties in fear of putting on weight, these garden tidbits are a friendly gesture. Especially if they learn to enjoy the pungent refreshment of hot tea without calorie-packed sugar and milk or cream.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed winter pears, wholewheat cereal, date muffins, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Baked beans, brown bread, sliced pineapple, tea, milk.

DINNER. Baked pork chops, gravy, baked sweet potatoes, mashed turnips, cranberry jelly, chocolate layer cake, fruit bowl, coffee, milk.

Raising A Family

The question has often come up for discussion, "What would a child be like, left entirely in a vacuum?" That is to say, in an untenanted world without things to do or things to play with, with no room for exercise and nothing but the sky to watch, and just enough food to keep him alive, provided three times a day by a silent hand.

O R Barton

It seems to be fairly well settled at last, in the case of six-year-old Alice Harris, who a year ago was found by the authorities penned up in a room where she had spent her life without any exercise, anyone to talk to, and with no chance for play.

DOCTORS WERE WRONG

Physicians and mental specialists predicted that she would be normal in a year. Now the year is almost up. And Dr. Kingsley Davis of Pennsylvania State College announces that after repeated observations the child has not progressed at all. She cannot eat, chew, stand up, follow directions, obey, walk or crawl. Alice was, you see, kept in a half reclining position and fed only soft foods.

She seems to lack ambition, so says Dr. Davis, and lacks training. One is dependent on the other.

After all we have learned about the innate urges of babies and growing children that develop almost in spite of us, it would seem that science has been all wrong.

But not so. In this child's case, evidently the natural ambitions to play and exercise, to try out muscles and noises, and develop dexterity with hand and fingers, feet and toes, were all present as in any other baby. But without the opportunity to use them, they atrophied or dried up and disappeared. Now she may never reach the stage of normal receptivity. She may even be unable to use her faculties at all.

The world has watched with interest and emotion the outcome of this little girl's terrible experience. But today I think we might go into the subject of experience as it concerns all young children.

TRAINING PARALLELS GROWTH

The child builds. It adds layer on layer to the original foundation and eventually a structure of physical and mental strength emerges. And training must accompany the different phases of growth. As the child understands and his field of reason enlarges, more and more may be expected of him in the way of conduct and character.

His natural ambitions will extend beyond the accustomed rut. He will reach out, try new things, gain his victories and learn what is safe to repeat and what is best abandoned. He cannot do all this without liberty, a carefully measured liberty, and he cannot do it without guidance, example and precept. He cannot be kept back too much and he should not be permitted license.

Liberty means both activity and control. His prowess in mental and physical things will depend upon the means put at his disposal to learn. A good home life, education, friends, and individual experience are the best things for any child to grow on. He needs them all if he is to advance.

Your Health – By Dr. Frank McCoy

A good circulation of poor blood is absolutely essential to the enjoyment of perfect health. Even in good health, there is a very marked difference in the rapidity of the flow of blood in different parts of the body. When a partial stoppage exists in any part, that part will become cold, stiff, and of a bluish color. If there is too much interference with circulation, a slow death in the affected area takes place.

The blood is the great porter of the system—that tranfer agent which supplies all parts of the body with required life material, and also picks up and carries to their outlets, various kinds of waste materials. Its presence is life; its absence is death. An efficient circulation is the paramount condition of life and all its marvelous functions.

The theory that the heart propels is only partly true. If the heart did all the pumping of the blood through the miles of arteries, capillaries and veins, it would have to exert a much greater propulsive power than it does.

The office of the heart is really to regulate, cut off and measure the blood, and to start it on its way by a vigorous contraction. Of course, such regular working of the heart muscles requires considerable power, but its main office is regulatory, not propulsive.

If the heart does not do all of the pumping of the blood, what then does generate the tremendous power necessary to propel the blood through the system? Part of the answer lies in the vasomotor nervous control over the blood vessels. The vasomotor nerves have the power of controlling the calibre of the vessels, having the ability to cause the vessels to dilate or contract. When a free blood supply is desired through the given part, the nerves send the command to the vessels to open and let the blood freely through; while when it is desirable to cut down on the flow, the nerves tell the vessels to constrict, or draw together so as to become smaller.

Another factor which influences the blood circulation is the tone of the muscles of the body. Seemingly when the muscles possess their normal tone, or tautness, this acts as a force which sends the blood back along the veins to the heart. In other words, good muscles help a person to have a good circulation.

However, in addition to these factors, it is my belief that there is still another theory which must be brought forth to finish the explanation of how the blood manages to circulate with such speed. From my experience and observation, I am convinced that the mysterious force called vital energy has something to do with the propulsion of the blood.

This vital force is generated or transformed through physical exercise and through breathing. The blood will not continue to circulate unless oxygen is taken into the lungs and then transferred to the tissue, which tissues give up carbon dioxide as waste. When air is inhaled it is comparatively rich in oxygen, while when it is exhaled the oxygen content is much reduced. No matter how much blood there is, it can not furnish life unless it is supplied with oxygen, and the scarlet thread of life will stop within a few minutes once the oxygen supply is cut off.

Breathing possibly propels the blood as much as any other muscular action of the body, but the muscular action of the lungs is not alone responsible for propelling the blood. The chemical action of the oxygen from the air being transferred to the tissues, and the constant giving out of carbon dioxide apparently creates a sort of perpetual motion, which seems to help the blood a great deal in making its rounds.

With our limited knowledge, we can not hope to profess to know all about the many factors which keep the vital fluid flowing, but I believe that the above factors are worth considering. If there is any lesson to be learned from them it is the lesson that exercise to develop muscle tone, and good habits of breathing, help to create a good circulation.

NO TIME TO MARRY

By ELINORE C. STONE

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JANET DWIGHT, heroine. She was engaged to handsome young architect

LANCE BARSTOW, hero. Lance had great dreams for the future. So did

CYNTHIA CANTRELL, orphaned granddaughter of great-aunt Mary Cantrell. Still another dreamer was BARNEY McKNIGHT, newspaper man. But Barney was more than a dreamer.

* * *

Yesterday: Mr. Bryant, Janet's attorney, calls her asking that she come to see him since there are some very important matters to discuss!

CHAPTER VI

WHEN Janet carried her bills up to her own room, she was shocked and incredulous to find out how much she had spent during the past month.

There were several considerable items that Cynthia had charged to her account. On previous occasions Cynthia had charged things to her, and Aunt Mary had paid for them as a matter of course. . . . But I can't give the bills to Aunt Mary this time, Janet thought. Not after this afternoon.

The whole thing came to considerably more than her balance at the bank. Her dressmaker's bills were still to come; and aside from the fact that she would need a great deal of ready money during the next few days, there was, Lance had told her, an immediate payment due upon the house.

She must make sure, when she talked to Mr. Bryant tomorrow, to arrange for those payments. And perhaps, after all, there might be enough margin to take care of the difference between the rent on this apartment and that of the smaller one Aunt Mary talked of taking at the Avalon.

Janet had just thrown the last envelope into the wastebasket when Aunt Mary opened the door.

"Janet Dwight!" she cried, sweeping down upon her niece with all the indignant authority of her five feet two. "Do you mean to tell me that you haven't taken off those wet things yet? Get them off this minute, and yourself into a hot tub of water. After that, you're going to bed."

"But, Aunt Mary," Janet protested, "I'm not ready to go to bed. Besides, I want my dinner. This business of rushing around getting ready to be married burns up the calories."

"I did not ask you whether or not you were ready." Aunt Mary placidly folded hands which, not so many years ago, had so capably wielded a switch. When Aunt Mary spoke in that tone, Janet almost forgot for the moment that the switch was not still at hand. "Margy will bring you a tray in due time."

* * *

So Janet soaked in fragrant warm suds for a luxurious half hour; then she slipped into a soft green negligee, and after the hot soup, omelet, and salad which Margy brought her, snapped on her bed lamp and stretched out with a new book.

It really was blissful to have an idle evening alone after the last few weeks' mad round of fittings and showers and late parties.

She had read a chapter or two when a knock sounded at her door, and Cynthia slipped into the room. It was worthy of note that Cynthia had bothered to knock at all; but it was not that which made Janet put down her book and give her undivided attention to her cousin.

There was in Cynthia's manner as she poised there, a slim, black-gowned silhouette leaning against the creamy panel of the door, a strange, almost breathless excitement. It dilated the pupils of her violet eyes, and lent a new transparency to the pallor of her skin against the dark cloud of hair that hung to her shoulders.

She was wearing a black dinner frock with a long full skirt that rippled about her silver sandals in lustrous folds. The slim tight basque had silver buttons up the front and slashes of silver at the wrists. It was a dress which Janet did not recognize.

Cynthia's eyes followed her own as they swept over it.

"No, you've never seen it before," Cynthia said. "I'm sorry about it, Jan. I should have asked you first; but after I'd seen it, I just couldn't risk having somebody beat me to it."

"It does suit you marvellously," Jan said.

"Of course you know I shouldn't have bought it if I'd known—about Aunt Mary's money. I tried to return it today, but the store had made a lot of alterations on it."

"It would have been a pity to send it back. It does things for you, Cyn. It makes you look like a princess out of a story book."

"I know it's a knock-out. That's why I'm wearing it tonight. I have an idea"—Cynthia went even paler and broke off on a caught breath—"I have an idea I'm going to make it pay for itself."

Janet exclaimed, "Cynthia — but you can't mean that you're going to sell it?"

"Sell it?" Cynthia's smile twisted a little. "Perhaps that's not such a bad way to put it . . . But not in the way you mean, Jan."

Jan opened her lips to ask, "Cynthia, what on earth are you talking about?" Then her memory echoed Aunt Mary's words of the afternoon, "Just as much as Cynthia usually means when she's feeling dramatic," and she laughed softly.

"Well, have yourself a good time," she said. "And, Cyn, don't worry about the dress. We just won't tell Aunt Mary."

* * *

She took up her book again. But Cynthia lingered, her glance bent as if in complete concentration upon her expertly manicured left hand. In a moment she said in a low tone, without lifting her eyes, "You're a swell kid, Jan. You've—got something not many people have . . . . . Aunt Mary has it too. Something—oh, I don't know how to say it—like a clear, steady light that never goes out . . . . I—Jan, if ever I—"

When she broke off again, Janet laughed in quick embarrassment. All this was so utterly unlike the cool, amused Cynthia she knew.

"Good Lord, Cyn!" she said. "If you need taxi fare or something, why don't you say so without all the floral offerings? You know you're—"

"Don't," Cynthia cried sharply, lifting her head. "I was—trying to tell you something, Jan. Now I can't . . . I—well, good night, Jan."

Abruptly she turned and whirled out of the room. Janet, touched the contrite, tried to call her back; but Cynthia had flashed down the hall and out of the door before she could find her bedroom slippers.

She wished she had thought to ask where Cyn was going for dinner. For her cousin's words at the telephone that afternoon, she had guessed it was somewhere with Barney McKnight. . . . Well, when Cyn came home, she would slip into her room and have a long talk with her—only by that time, no doubt, Cynthia would have put on another of her chameleon phases, and would resent any reference to this evening's strange mood.

Janet took up her book again.

Later, she was drowsily conscious that some one was turning off her bed lamp, shutting off the steam, raising the window, and shaking out the warm coverlet that lay on the foot of the bed—just conscious enough to murmur, "Thanks a lot," without opening her eyes, before she snuggled more comfortably into her pillow and dropped off again.

She started awake to the clang of the telephone on her bed table. At first, confusion struggled with annoyance as she rolled over and caught up the instrument, her only thought to stifle the noisy bell. Then her annoyance fled. Of course! How like Lance to think he must say "Good night!" to her after his party, no matter how late it was!

But it wasn't Lance who was calling.

Man, with the brain he has, would have advanced but little if he had not been able to work with his hands, and the opposable thumb, which enables him to use the delicate instruments that he constructs, must be given credit with the brain.

Dorothy Dix Says:

A CORRESPONDENT wants to know why there are more bachelors now than there used to be. She says that women are better looking, better dressed, better educated, more attractive than they ever were, yet they find it harder and harder to get husbands.

Well, the increase in the number of bachelors may be accounted for in several ways. First, on financial grounds. After all, matrimony is a matter o' money to a great extent, and the poor boy on a shoestring salary can no more afford to set up a wife than he can a yacht. Youth is the mating time of life. It is the time when the blood runs hot in the veins and a man can see the angel of his dreams in any girl in a white dress. If he cannot marry then but has to put it off until his pulses have slowed down and he looks at women with a critical eye, he is more than likely not to marry at all.

Of course, our forefathers didn't put off marriage until they had the price, but marriage wasn't the expensive proposition then that it is now. Young couples didn't expect to start out where their parents were leaving off, and domestic bliss did not depend upon the possession of automobiles and radios, fine clothes and sessions at the beauty shop.

But right or wrong, we have our acquired tastes and habits, and so when the modern Romeo figures out that the income that supplies luxuries for one would mean poverty and hard-sledding for two and more, and he has to decide between Juliet and a new car, it is not surprising that he is faithful to his deathless pasion for himself and buys the streamlined automobile.

The emancipation of women did a lot for them, but it certainly put a crimp in their matrimonial prospects. Many men do not marry because their freedom is dearer to them than anything in the world. Others do not marry because they are selfish, and the very thought of having to give up all of their little ways and adjust themselves to the personality of a woman sends cold chills up and down their spines. Others do not marry because they are celibate by nature. No woman ever raises a thrill in their breasts. They have no leanings toward domesticity and they can conjure up no fate more dreadful than having to go home every night to a boiled mutton dinner and squalling brats.

What To Do

My little girl is so careless about her clothing. She never hangs it up at night; doesn't bother if her dresses are spotted; walks through puddles in her best shoes; and worries me in all sorts of ways. Can you suggest a way to cure her?

MRS. T. R. L.

Answer—Perhaps your daughter is still very young. But it is true that a chid's training should begin as soon as he or she can reason. Why not start by making her wear her clothes in the condition that she leaves them? Next, why not take your daughter with you whenever you buy her clothing of any sort? Let her help select the color and style, and show her how you judge quality, durability and the like. This may impress her with a sense of values. She will certainly be flattered at your reliance on her judgment, and as a result, her clothes and their care will probably take on added importance in her eyes.

Many Women Are Tired By Their Faulty Habits

By ALICIA HART

Chronic fatigue, accompanied by a listless manner, just isn't conducive to beauty—the glowing variety that comes from within, depending little on mere physical characteristics for its lasting charm.

According to Marie Beynon Ray, author of "Two Lifetimes in One," a fine little book which tells how not to be tired, chronic fatigue is largely a matter of habit—bad habit.

"Word-of-mouth fatigue is something to fight against," says the slender perfectly-groomed, gray-haired author who claims that she never has been tired in her life. And this in spite of the fact that she has been managing editor of one magazine, fashion editor of another, author of several books and is the mother of a 19-year-old daughter.

START YOUNG

"Young girls begin by claiming they are tired so as to impress their friends with their popularity, how late they stayed out, and so on. The habit of 'tired talk' becomes further set later on when the same girls tell their husbands how tiring housework is. Many a woman goes around saying and eventually thinking she is tired when she really isn't!"

Mrs. Ray ponts out in her book that the cure for chronic fatigue is a balanced life. Which means allowing time for exercise (preferably in the form of games) and a hobby as well as sleep and work.

One must remember, however, she warns, that absorbing interest in music, poetry, needlepoint or stamp collecting or whatever does not just happen. You have to learn a great deal about any subject before you enjoy it.

Mrs. Ray says, too, that self-centered people are more likely to be tired a great deal of the time than those who are so interested in a variety of things that they seldom have time to think of themselves.

"You are interesting only if you are interested," she concluded. Bores are those who are bored.

"And it's well to remember that feminine vitality is your most valuable asset. Unless you have something organically wrong with you, in which case you ought to have medical care, by all means have enough interest in your life to ward off chronic fatigue. Be an interesting, interested, vital person!"

Minute Make-Ups

For that evening party on which much depends, bring out the full beauty of your eyes. First, just the least touch of gold or silver shadow on your lids. Then a light film of your most exotic colored shadow over it. That slight iridescence gives your eyes a sparkle!

Broomhall

The importers stress the hugeness of the Argentine wheat surplus expected to become available from the crop now believed to be over 300,000,000 bushels. The wheat board is incurring a grave risk of losing the market altogether if unwilling to do business at a price at which the wheat will sell freely on consuming markets. English millers' needs are fairly well taken care of, having just contracted for 23,000,000 bushels of U. S. wheat by mid-summer, in addition to substantial arrivals from Romania and also from Canada within few dys by stemer from American ports, with 140,000,000 bushels surplus remaining over and above all needs at home, selling at prices around 70 cents a bushel c.i.f. Europe. For these reasons importers cannot be expected to bid freely for New Plate wheat, and it is quite possible that Argentine shippers will be obliged to lower prices to around 55c c.i.f. compared to the present price of 61½c c.i.f. In a season when exporters' surpluses exceed estimated shipments by 288,000,000 bushels, no country with a near-record surplus can afford to hold back for higher prices. The wheat board at B. A. could stand a 15c a bushel subsidy, which under the circumstances would not be an excessive price to pay for keeping the wheat in circulation abroad. The world visible supply this week increased 7,000,000 and is now 152,000,000 larger than this time last year, and the visible supply in the southern hemisphere is constantly increasing. With this accumulation of cash wheat, the markets will undoubtedly need fresh incentives to keep from declining. News has become stale and the American and Argentine dry weather has lost its effect. England purchased the following parcels of wheat yesterday: U. S. 1 hard winter afloat at 62½c, South Australian afloat at 67½, Danubian arriving at 60c, Danubian Feb. at 57c, and No. 4 Manitoba Atlantic shipping at 60½c.

PROGRESS IS REPORTED BY U.F.A. CO-OPS

Sales During 1938 Estimated At Close To Million Dollar Mark

CALGARY, Jan. 18—Total sales estimated at close to the million-dollar mark during 1938 with dividends of $80,232.65 since 1931 was disclosed in the annual report of the Central Co-Operative Association to the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta here today.

"The big task before us is one of consolidating the advances made, keeping in mind at all times that we need to extend the range of activity to more areas of the province and to other lines of merchandising," the report declared.

FIXED ASSETS

The financial statement disclosed fixed asets of $66,282.47 and liquid assets of $32,841.24 with accumulated surplus of $24,212.61. Dividends paid during the seven months ended October 31 last amounted to $17,831.23 and total sales during 1938 were estimated at $949,000.

The report recommended that dividends be not paid during the next one or two years in order to permit building up of reserves. Greater reserves were necessary to establish the co-operatives securely although the associations had operated successfully so far.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES

Major activities of the co-operatives within the association has been the purchasing of petroleum products, binder twine, coal, tires, batteries and farm chemicals such as gopher poison for distribution on a co-operative basis among farmer members of the locals. Business also was done in fence posts, salt, poultry supplies, etc.

The directors regretted a decline in the distribution of British Columbia fruit. "The fact is the consumption of British Columbia fruit is a mere fraction of what it would be if the distribution were properly organized and the price in line with the farmers' ability to pay," said the report.

Former $100,000 A Year Broker Lodged In Jail

NEW YORK, Jan. 18. — George Liftchild, who said he had earned $100,000 a year for 20 years as a Wall Street broker, is looking for a place to sleep—at 83.

The aged former financier and his son, Frank, 55, spent last night in a police station after a futile attempt to barricade their home against deputy sheriffs sent by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to dispossess them.

Police persuaded them to leave their once richly furnished 10-room home in Brooklyn by promising lodging for the night and agreeing to help them find another place to stay. The two men had locked themselves on the third floor of the house.

Liftchild told police, who raised $5 to furnish him food, he still had an equity in a $30,000 property in Brooklyn, but that it had been tied up in litigation over tax liens.

Sixty-one years ago, he said, he became a senior partner in a Wall Street firm and prospered until the death of his wife in 1915. Since then the family fortunes have waned, he said.

Home-Millarville Well Has Highest Bottom Pressure

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—Home-Millarville No. 2, has the highest bottom-hole pressure of any ever recorded in Turner Valley, 3,055 pounds per square inch, tests taken Tuesday revealed. The well had been closed in for 72 hours before the test was made, Dr. J. O. G. Sanderson, company geologist, reported.

The well, which produced crude at a rate of about 1,200 barrels per day when completed last week, will be given a light acid treatment of the lower porous limestone Wednesday to increase flow.

The heavy gas pressure at depth indicates to experts a long producing life for the new area.

MAN WARNED TO OBSERVE COURT ORDER

Jasper Park Resident Must Contribute To Child Or Go To Jail

If he does not he will be brought to court to answer for his contempt and will be placed in jail," stated Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie as he ordered that Edwin J. Watkins, Jasper Park, pay $15 monthly toward the support of his child.

Mrs. Helen O. Watkins was successful in her suit against her husband for divorce Tuesday, Mr. Justice Tweedie granting her a decree nisi and custody of the child of the marriage. He made an order granting $15 monthly for two years for the support of the infant, and further ordered that this be increased to $20 monthly for the following two years and to $25 monthly for the subsequent two years.

Question of alimony for Mrs. Watkins was reserved and leave was given either party to apply for variation of the court's maintenance order after the expiration of one year.

Of the total registered 7,295 were men and 768 women.

This city kept its place at the head of the unemployment list, with a total of 3,606, of whom 3,181 were men and 425 women. Calgary registered a total of 3,453 of whom 3,197 were men and 256 women.

Lethbridge registered 442 men and 16 women; Medicine Hat 318 men and 68 women, and Drumheller 157 men and three women. During the week positions were found for 324 men and 120 women.

The Inquiring Reporter

As the House of Commons swung into its debates and party gladiators clashed on national issues, the Edmonton Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter today asked: "What particular debates of former years in parliament or legislature stand out in memory?"

Here are a few replies:

JOHN BLUE, Chamber of Commerce: Perhaps a speech by Mr. Bennett stands out so vividly in memory because it was recalled during his recent visit here. But I think Mr. Bennett's speech in the legislature on the railway problem in this province will be remembered by all who heard it.

* * *

J. C. COLLINS, merchant: I remember hearing Laurier in the city during the famous 1917 campaign and I have never forgotten the tribute he received on that occasion. Many people in the audience did not agree with him, but his courtesy, his charm and his culture disarmed all animosity and he left crowned with the plaudits of a city that respected a great man and trained orator.

* * *

JOHN HART, barrister: Hon. Charles A. Dunning's exposition of his May Day budget in the House of Commons, on which the 1930 campaign was largely fought by the Liberal party, was a great address. If it had been fully appreciated by the country, we might have entered upon a period of expanding trade based upon co-operation, rather than have embraced the stultifying policies of economic nationalism and high tariffs.

CHRONICLE FOR CHAMBER REVIEW IS PROGRESSING

Report on the progress being made in drawing up a chronicle of the leading events in the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce's fifty years of existence was submitted to its weekly council meeting in the Corona Wednesday noon by John Blue, secretary-manager.

The Chamber observes its fiftieth birthday next month, and its chronicle, when complete, will present the story, in miniature, of Edmonton's growth from a straggling settlement by the river's edge to the capital of the province.

Committee to co-operate with civic organizations for the royal visit also was discussed at the council meeting, as was a report on the Alaska and evergreen highways by C. H. Grant, K.C.

FLYING

Flying in a plane is a matter of going so fast sideways, gravity takes a shellacking.

Modern man thinks he has equalled the bird. But no plane has been devised yet that can carry a fish in its propellor.

Flying today shows off the beauties of nature better than ever before. One hostess is prettier than another.

It is an open secret that Man has conquered the air. During a hurricane, however, he is not apt to bring the subject up very often.

Bonnie Annie Laurie, about whom we all sing, was an actual person born in 1682, oldest daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, of Maxwelltown. The author of the famous song, William Douglas, of Fingland, was engaged to marry his beloved Annie Laurie, who "gie'd him her promise true," but she broke her promise true to marry James Fergusson instead. Douglas also failed to carry out his part of the song, and did not lay himself "doun and dee" when he lost Annie Laurie.

DECISION LAGS UPON QUESTION OF SPANISH AID

French Cabinet Debates Problem Under Steadily Increasing Demands

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The French cabinet, under steadily increasing demands for help to government Spain, debated the problem for 2½ hours today. No decision was announced.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, who held the floor throughout, was understood to have maintained France must keep in the good graces of Great Britain by adhering closely to the policy of non-intervention.

The campaign continued in parliament and the press, however, for help to Barcelona to counteract Italian support for General Franco. One section of the cabinet itself was understood to be swinging round to this view.

LABOR JOINS SOCIALISTS

The executive committee of the General Confederation of Labor, representing French labor, voted to join Socialists and Communists in trying to get the government to send military help to the Spanish republic. Confederation officials were instructed to "Take all measures or join any movement to obtain effective and immediate assistance for Republican Spain."

The government, meanwhile, ordered an air raid defence trial in Paris tonight.

Cabinet Reaffirms Britain's Decision

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The cabinet was reported authoritatively today to have reaffirmed Great Britain's decision to refuse to sell war material to the Spanish government.

Prime Minister Chamberlain was understood to have rejected the request of Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, that the House of Commons be summoned immediately because of "the gravity of the situation in Spain."

While the policy not to sell arms supplies to both sides in Spain, it is generally acknowledged the British stand does not hamper the insurgents, who get their materials from Germany and Italy.

Arms For Spain Is Chant Of Big Crowd

LONDON, Jan. 18. — A large crowd chanting "arms for Spain" gathered in Whitehall today as the cabinet met at 10 Downing Street for its first session since Prime Minister Chamberlain returned from Italy.

The demonstrators were not permitted to enter Downing street. It was the second time in 24 hours pro-Barcelona demonstrations were staged near the prime minister's residence.

Last night more than 200 students of both sexes massed in Whitehall shouting "No surrender to Fascism! Arms for Spain!"

REBELS FIGHT WAY ACROSS GAYA RIVER

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 18.—Spanish insurgent forces pushing north-eastward along the Mediterranean toward Barcelona today fought their way across the Gaya river where they had been held shortly after the fall of Tarragona Sunday.

Burgos field bulletins reported the capture of Altafulla and Vespella, both on the east side of the river which until late yesterday had marked the government's defence line. Both villages are about 42 miles from Barcelona. The insurgent columns led personally by General Franco about 35 miles directly west of Barcelona apparently were slowed down by stiffened government resistance.

Temperature Drops 22 Degrees During Period Of 6 Hours

Citizens had visions of another chilly spell Tuesday when the mercury dropped 22 degrees in six hours. Fears were cast aside, however, when the fluid began to climb again to touch the 32 line at 4 and 5 a.m. Wednesday. At 2 p.m. Tuesday the thermometer registered 38 above. At 8 p.m. it stood at 16 above.

Local forecast for Wednesday predicted fair and mild weather with not much change in temperature.

Early Wednesday light snowfalls left a .02-inch blanket on the ground.

Temperatures in the near and far north climbed overnight, ranging in the near north from ten below to 34 above, and in the far north from 12 below to 34 above.

Snow fell at House River and Pelican.

Vancouver B.C. Bridge Jumper May Become Showman at World's Fair

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18—Friends of Oscar Erickson, the Vancouver Island logger who plunged from the Lion's Gate bridge into Vancouver harbor, revealed Tuesday he may become a showman at the New York or San Francisco world's fair this year.

They said the daring high-rigger who leaped 200 feet from the bridge spanning Vancouver's harbor entrance early in December has signed a contract with a promoter who is negotiating to place him in one of the big shows this summer.

Erickson, a wiry little Norseman who became fearless of great heights from working in British Columbia's big timber country, was scarcely stunned by his dive, believed to be one of the longest ever made by a human. It doubled the famous jump Steve Brodie is reported to have made from Brooklyn bridge, spanning New York's East River, before the turn of the century.

His friends say he does not plan to go back to the logging camps this year when they reopen after a mid-winter spell of inactivity, because he wants to be ready to leave for the carnivals at a moment's notice.

PONOKA GROUP IN URGENT PLEA FOR TREASURY BRANCH

Establishment at Ponoka of a provincial government treasury branch as part of the interim program now under way, was urged upon Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, by a delegation from that point on Tuesday afternoon. The delegation was introduced by Mrs. Edith Rogers, M.L.A. for Ponoka and included Neil Nelson, mayor of Ponoka; Percy McKelvie, president of the Ponoka Chamber of Commerce, and Gordon Algar, secretary of the same organization.

Mr. Low promised consideration of the request.

Mrs. Rogers, interviewed apart from the delegation, stated that she is a city visitor on constituency business, having come here from attending the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Alberta Social Credit League at Calgary, at which she was re-elected as a member of the League Board of Management and representative and organizer for the Auxiliaries, for that part of the province north of Red Deer.

Mrs. Rogers said that farmers of the Fertile Valley and Waterglen municipalities are circulating petitions asking the Dominion government to establish tuberculosis free areas for cattle and also are petitioning the government to take steps to eradicate the warble fly, which is one of the greatest pests cattle have to contend with.

DOOR WIDENS ON JOBS FOR WOMEN

LONDON, Jan. 18. — Women are to be eligible for the administrative grades of the Dominions and Colonial Offices as an experiment, Malcolm MacDonald, Dominions secretary, has announced.

The announcement makes it theoretically possible for a woman to become permanent under-secretary of state in these offices at £2,400 ($11,304) a year. Formerly the highest post a woman could reach was a staff clerkship at £600 ($2,826).

L. C. White, secretary of the Civil Service Clerical Association, said, "This implements an agreement in principle made three years ago by the Civil Service National Whitley Council. Women are now only barred in those branches of the defence ministries where service abroad might be necessary, and from the administrative diplomatic and consular grades of the Foreign Office.

"There are also a few other special grades barred to women—on the collection side of the Inland Revenue and on the Ecclesiastical Commission, for example. The argument that women ought not be sent abroad can be met by the fact that women do serve abroad as doctors, missionaries and nurses in any region or climate.

"Why should they not serve as civil servants?"

Shipping Snow

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., Jan. 18—Selling snow for ski slides is quite a business hereabouts. Eight carloads were shipped to Gary, Ind., and the shippers feel other orders will be coming unless the weatherman cuts in and delivers some snow first-hand.

CITY GENERATOR WILL BE READY FOR USE SOON

Edmonton power plant's new $215,000 turbo-generator will be operating before the end of February, Supt. R. G. Watson of the city power department said Tuesday. When the new generator is put into action it will raise the capacity of the city's plant from a present maximum of 25,000 kilowatts to 40,000 kilowatts, and will mark the completion of a $950,000 modernization program.

Besides the new 170-ton generator, other improvements to the plant include the building of a new water-circulating pumphouse and intake which cost $120,000 and the installation of a 100-ton steam-generating unit composed of the largest boiler in Canada and the largest chain-grate stoking unit on the continent.

Business Leaders Say Trade Better Rail Chief States

Accompanied by H. Y. Knox, of Winnipeg, general superintendent for the western region, express department, Mr. Ham came to the city Wednesday morning for a brief business visit.

While here both officials plan to see Edmonton officials of the railway as well as business men. They will leave for Calgary Thursday and then go on to the coast. They are at the Macdonald.

Moderate weather thus far in Edmonton's winter season has slowed up operations of ice companies who annually harvest huge blocks from the Saskatchewan river above the city.

CANADIAN BEEF TOPS ALL FOR LONDON SALES

Chilled Transit Facilities Open Vast Market To Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—Canadian prime beef chilled in transit has become the sensation of London's famed Smithfield Market, where it commands a higher price than Scottish beef, Hon. Duncan Marshall (Lib., Peel) said during debate on the address in the Senate Tuesday.

Senator Marshall said the new method of shipment had been developed by Dr. A. M. Shaw of the Dominion agriculture department's marketing service. Hung up in chilled railroad cars, the sides of beef were maintained at the same temperature crossing the Atlantic and during transfer to the market. Railways had co-operated to see that the car temperatures did not go below 32 degrees.

"Cattle killed in the city of Toronto—and within a few weeks this will also be true of cattle killed in Winnipeg and a few weeks later of cattle killed in Edmonton and Calgary—is shipped to the Smithfield Market in London, where it commands a higher price than prime Scotch," the senator said.

Berlin Trains Hundreds For Colonist Work Where No Colonies Grow

By RICHARD C. HOTTELET
British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Germany is training hundreds of young men and women to be colonists, planters and doctors in a Nazi colonial empire that does not exist.

The elaborate training programs have been undertaken by the Reich as a sign of confidence that eventually Germany's pre-war colonies will be restored by Great Britain and France.

The former German colonies, 1,175,000 square miles [illegible] 14,000,000 inhabitants [illegible] Tanganyika, German Southwest Africa, The Cameroons and Togoland in Africa. Germany also lost Samoa, Kiautchaou, the Caroline Islands and other Far Eastern territories.

German physicians also are undergoing special training at the Hamburg Institute for Nautical and Tropical Medicine. After the Reich School for Colonial Administration is opened Germany will have personnel to take over the colonies immediately, should they be returned.

SCHOOL FOR WOMEN

At Rensburg in Holstein there is a colonial school for young women, mainly between the ages of 18 and 22, where German girls from the Reich and from abroad are trained to make efficient and hardy wives for colonists.

Its course of study, extending over a year, is essentially practical. It takes in all phases of an agricultural, self-sufficient household—cooking, interior decoration, baking, slaughtering, fruit growing, sewing, first aid and tropical hygiene and care of children. The girls also can learn blacksmithing, painting, shoemaking and upholstering.

The young women are intensively schooled in the national socialist ideology with emphasis on race theory and genetics. Bookkeeping [illegible] taught [illegible].

FOR YOUNG MEN

A similar school for young men from 17 to 26 is located at Witzenhausen and Der Werra. Here all phases of scientific soil management, specializing in tropical problems, are taught over a period of three years. Chemistry and mechanics, husbandry and the handicrafts are taught.

"Parents, let your sons be trained for a career as colonial farmers," says the bulletin, "for the coming overseas territories assure their futures."

Young men and women for these schools are chosen with an eye toward their physical and genetical fitness. The ideological and political training is in accordance with national socialist principles.

COURT HEARS ABOUT SECRET GAS REBATES

Company Admits Refunds Made On Sales In Alberta

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18.—Cecil D. Meltabarger, Canadian manager of the Texas Oil Company, testified in supreme court Tuesday secret rebates have been allowed by his company on gasoline sold in Alberta.

Mr. Meltabarger, testifying at the trial before Mr. Justice A. M. Manson to determine whether British Columbia's coal and petroleum products control board act is valid, said further his company "made no profits in Alberta last year."

In questioning Meltabarger, Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer who is conducting the government's case in the suit started by nine gasoline distributing firms in the province asked:

"The oil companies give secret rebates, do they not?"

"Yes, we have given them," Meltabarger replied.

"To what extent?" Mr. Wismer asked. Three of four cents?"

Senator J. W. de B. Farris, oil companies' chief counsel, objected the evidence in question was not material.

"Oh, yes, it is," Mr. Wismer retorted. "The public is entitled to know."

Questioned further, Mr. Meltabargar said "at present as far as I know," no rebates are given in British Columbia.

Senator Farris again objected to questioning witness about rebates. He termed the procedure "the most unfair I have ever seen perpetrated."

Mr. Justice Manson ruled further evidence along that line would not be heard.

According to the latest statistics there are 3,109,508 truck drivers in the United States.

VISITOR RAPS CHANGING OF SCHOOL UNITS

Charges Fascist Methods Used By Alberta Government

REGINA, Jan. 18.—Alberta government used Fascist methods in changing the school system to larger units, C. F. Little, K.C., declared Tuesday on his return from attending the Alberta School Trustees' Association convention in Edmonton last week.

Mr. [illegible]

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Imagine This!

The Sad Moral

A Mere Trifle

THE other day the mail brings a letter from Frank G. Menke—and if [illegible] sport writing business you know that that letter from Menke is always good for an unusual story. He is the man who produced the All-Sports Record Book for several years. It was the finest [illegible] published in any country, but Frank discovered [illegible] it was too good. He dropped $30,000 on the venture and discontinued it in 1936.

Now he is in charge of publicity for the Kentucky Derby and that automatically assures this event of a better break on the sport sheets of Canada and the United States than it has enjoyed in the past, for Menke is ace high with every sport editor and he has the greatest collection of odd stories at his command of any writer in the business.

In return for the yarn Frank sent me, I take great pleasure in announcing that the 65th running of the Kentucky Derby will take place at Louisville on May 6.

Space demands that I condense the yarn down in my own rough-hewn method.

When $48,000 Went Flooey

GENE WOODS, one of the old-timers of the turf who used to bet them high and handsome in the good old days before everybody started studying new economic systems, was one man who could tell you how it felt to have $48,000 in your hands and then toss it away by being "wise". After that sad afternoon, Gene knew that a man might not be able to have too much knowledge but that he certainly could have too much information.

Back a decade or two ago, a fellow named Mike Daley came in from the west with a horse named St. Joseph which he entered in a feature race at the Empire City track. Mike knew Gene and tipped him off that his horse was an absolute cinch to win. Now Gene's patron saint happened to be St. Joseph, so he decided to play the combination. He took $1,000 and laid it down at odds that would pay him $48,000 if the horse won.

[illegible] Gene [illegible] in the clubhouse [illegible]. Then the villain entered in the form of Bob Smith, the man who later trained Cavalcade. He was a pal of Gene Woods and had been giving him hot tips [illegible]. Taking Gene aside, he explained to him [illegible]. Smith also supplied detailed reasons why St. Joseph simply couldn't win.

Woods listened and finally decided that the cold facts of the matter greatly outweighed his sentimental ones. He rushed over to the betting commissioner he had wagered with and after much frantic talking he cancelled his bet on St. Joseph and put the money on the horse Smith advised. In the heat of the moment he even went hook, line and sinker and boosted his ante to $10,000.

When the horses broke from the barrier, St. Joseph was on top and he was never headed. They say Woods was fit to be tied for awhile as he saw $48,000 profit and $10,000 of his own roll vanish in the dust behind St. Joseph's flying heels. They also say he then went in search of Bob Smith with first degree as his objective, but he never caught up with Smith [illegible] for Bob Smith is still hale and hearty.

What Are Two Goals To a Keats?

IN the byg-one days when Duke Keats was the supreme centre ice wizard of hockey, he counted his goals by the half-dozen. A couple in a game were just trifles in his scheme of things. Playing in the Trail Ranger Hockey League here now is a chip off the old block, Gordon Keats Junior—and he figures goals like his dad does.

[illegible] there was a note on my desk telling of a smashing 3-1 win [illegible] had chalked up over the Central Aces in a Trail Ranger League game. It records that Keats scored two for the Monarchs in the first period with Sampson getting an assist, [illegible] the other one in the final period. It gave a pat on [illegible] the Aces' goalie and to Fente, Ethier, Miller and Johnson.

Then came the human interest angle. It was a note to Gordon Keats' auntie, Flo Nelson of the Bulletin staff, asking her to have the story run with his name just as "Keats". "I don't want people to think that I'm wanting to be in the news, or that I'm a big shot, 'cause two goals aren't much," Gordon scrawled in his boyish hand.

So to square Gordon with his gang, I hereby assure them that I'm responsible for playing the story up and that Gordon did everything a kid could to avoid being played up.

His Yankees To Carry On

COLONEL RUPPERT

The mighty baseball empire created by Colonel Jacob Ruppert's millions will continue virtually unchanged it was revealed when Ruppert's will was read in New York yesterday. Edward G. Barrow, for 13 years business manager of the Yankees will become president of the club. He was one of four trustees named in the will. Others are George E. Ruppert, brother of the late owner; Frederick E. Grant, the Colonel's legal adviser, and Harry C. Silleck, Ruppert's brother-in-law. The will provides that George M. Weiss remain as manager of the Ruppert minor league holdings. The Colonel's baseball holdings are valued at $10,000,000. He died Friday.

Joe Sick and Tired

But Dimaggio After Raise In Pay

Of Missing Opener

By HENRY McLEMORE

British United Press, Exclusive to the Edmonton Bulletin

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—This time last year the man was clamoring for $40,000 and vowing that unless he got it he would turn his back on baseball forever and devote his throwing arm and batting eye to making out menus for his San Francisco cafe.

He didn't get the $40000 or anything like it, yet a week after the season opened he was in center field for the Yankees, a bit out of line, physically, and with the customers. His clamoring for more money hadn't helped his wind, and his high scorn for a $25,000 salary had not endeared him to the bleacher boys, being as most of them would have cheerfully tiptoed barefoot through purgatory for half that amount.

This year Joe Di Maggio does not plan to demand $40,000. Let the Yankees mail him a contract for $30,000 and whatever the record is for taking a fountain pen out of pocket and signing name to document, and he'll break it.

$5,000 RAISE

Here in Los Angeles for a few days of fun (his idea of fun incidentally, is to see a double feature movie in the afternoon and two more eight reelers at night) Di Maggio told me that all he asked of Colonel Jake Ruppert this year was a $5,000 boost.

"I think that is a reasonable request" he said. "We had a championship team last year, one that walked home in the American and took the world series in four straight. Being as I led the club in hitting and runs batted in, I figure I have a raise coming."

Di Maggio is sick and tired of not being on hand for the opening game of the year.

"I have been with the Yanks three years," he said, "and have yet to play an opening game. The first year I had a bad foot that kept me out. The next year it was my tonsils. And last year I was holding out. This year I want to start from scratch."

MAY BE LATE

If he doesn't get his raise, however, Joe is likely to be late. The accident to Monte Stratton, White Sox pitcher who lost a leg, heightened his belief that a ball player's career is a treacherous one, and that a fellow has to get his money while the getting is good.

"You never can tell when something is going to happen," Joe said, "something that will end your career. I don't believe in a player being selfish or placing too high a price on his services, but a fellow's a sucker not to try and get all he can. He may be a star one day, and a cripple the next."

"It will be comforting to the other American League clubs to learn that Di Maggio doesn't think there is a team in the league that can make a fight of it with the Yanks this year.

"We won by nine or ten games last year," he said, "and this year we ought to be better. Charley Keller will make the outfield better, and Hindebrand figures to win 15 or more games. Too, Gehrig is sure to have a better year. We not only have good hitting—we have the best defensive club in the league."

Joe thinks Eldon Auker and Jake Wade, the pitchers Boston got from the Tigers, will help the Sox.

CAN'T BE DONE

"You just can't hit that Auker's sinker ball into that short left field stand, and Wade is a southpaw with lots of stuff."

Joe isn't inclined to be any too "high" on Hutchinson, the younger pitcher Detroit bought from the coast league for $50,000. He says his brother, Dominick, who plays for San Francisco, never had any trouble hitting Hutchinson, and besides, if he had really been so hot, the Yanks would have gotten him.

Di Maggio had a good word for Wes Ferrell.

FERRELL BETTER

"He's a new man since he got in with the Yanks," Joe said. "All that temperament is gone, and he'll win a lot of games this year. He says the operation fixed his arm up, and he is ready to go."

During our conversation I asked Joe to name the best pitcher he ever faced.

"That's easy," he said. "Dizzy. From here to yonder. But if I had to pick a pitcher to work for me when I had all my dough riding that Ruffing would be good enough for me."

A Very, Very Worried Man

MIKE JACOBS

A very, very worried man is Senor Mike Jacobs, czar of New York's fistiana. No Mike is not worried about going broke—it's far more serious than that. Tickets for the Joe Louis, John Henry Lewis championship fight at Madison Square Garden a week from tonight are selling so fast that Jacobs is beginning to think he should have waited and staged the thing outdoors. M'gosh, the lad may have passed up a chance to make an additional $20,000 or so. Incidentally neither Joe nor John Henry are doing any fancy talking about the coming scrap. Joe claims he'll "whup" John Henry and John Henry figures he has a fair chance to do the same to Joe.

JOE STRIPP JOINS DODGER HOLDOUT LIST

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 18.—Joe Stripp waltzed into the ranks of Brooklyn holdouts Tuesday—and cut some fancy new steps on the way.

In addition to the traditional squawk about salary, the veteran infielder put in a new frill by insisting the Dodgers owe him $750 for rookies he sent to them two years ago and "I won't even consider a contract until they pay me for those kids."

Van Mungo, erratic fireballer and Fred Sington, hefty outfielder, already have passed themselves among the Dodgers' problem children by returning contracts. Mungo [illegible] slash and Sington didn't figure the terms offered him measured up to the clouting he did at the fag end of last season.

MUCH DIFFERENT

Stripp previously had hailed the opportunity to team up with Leo Durocher, new Dodger manager, but arrival of "them papers" sent him off on a different track.

"Brooklyn bought nine of my boys in 1937 with the stipulation that they'd pay me $150 for each one they kept. Five of those kids are playing in class 'A' ball today and I haven't seen any part of the money yet."

AN OLD STORY

"Jersey Joe" stretched his holdout campaign through the first month of the playing season last year before he finally came to terms with St. Louis Cardinals at a figure reported to have been $7,500.

Late in the season he was sold to Boston Bees. A recent swap sent Stripp back to Brooklyn, from where he originally went to the Cards.

RACING DONS RAISE PURSES 'PEG TRACKS

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18.—No purse under $500 will be offered at either Polo Park or Whittier Park racing meets in Winnipeg this year it was announced at a meeting of directors of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders and Racing Association here Tuesday. The decision will mean an [illegible] $12,000 in prize money for the local meets.

The report of R. James Speers of Winnipeg, honorary secretary of the association, showed that last year owners from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta won $137,450 of the $181,000 offered on the prairie circuit and Canadian owners as a whole won 84½ per cent of the total purse money.

In the early years of the Association's activity practically 90 per cent of the purse money was captured by horses from outside Canada.

RE-ELECTED

[illegible] has headed the association since [illegible] H. J. [illegible] for Manitoba, Lieut. Governor [illegible] and M. Smith, Calgary, Saskatchewan, S. G. Harrison for Qu'Appelle; Dr. E. T. Myers, Rosetown and J. O. Hettle, Saskatoon.

C. F. Roe was re-elected honorary treasurer and Mr. Speers, honorary secretary.

Placing Baer, Nova Ahead Of Tony Galento Causes Storm

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The heavyweight boxing championship jig-saw puzzle, as now being put together, hasn't altogether met with approval of some of the writing boys. In fact it is raising quite a storm of protest here and there.

They can't quite figure out why Madcap Maxie Baer, who hasn't fought for two years, and Lou Nova, still a green hand at the fisticuffing business, should be paired for a coveted shot at Joe Louis, while old "Two-Ton" Tony Galento is left out in the cold.

The figure of Two-Ton, they say, has been haunting the Louis menagerie like a 220 pound wraith for nigh on a year now, but at no time has it been so nobly supported as at present.

The Galento Cheering and Chowder Society contends Tony's candidacy is based on his fighting during last year—a year in which he also spent several weeks battling pneumonia.

TONY FOUGHT

While Madcap Maxie was training to be a cowboy in the movies, Tony was campaigning up and down the fistic front picking up the loose change as well as the victories. And while his bouts with those Thomas boys, Harry and Otis, weren't accompanied by any particular odor of roses, the society [illegible] game somewhere.

OUTDOOR BOUT?

There is talk the barrel-shaped [illegible] may have first [illegible] with Louis in an outdoor [illegible] in June. This seems sensible, on the ground that such a party would bring in paying guests from far and wide. For Galento has color and a knockout punch, although a straight puncher such as Joe probably could take care of Tony's rushing-hooking style.

MAX BAER (Played while Tony fought)

LOU NOVA (He's much too green)

Joe is slated for four fights this year, provided it doesn't mean the [illegible] revenue men will get in his hair. His first fight is against John Henry Lewis next week in Madison Square Garden. Then there is likely to be another indoor shot before March. In this party, Bob Pastor may be the lad to sit down to table with Louis. Then there will be an outdoor showing in June and probably another in September.

Powerful Bears Whip Meteors 45-23

Sam Moscovich Paces Smooth-Working Student Quintet With 10 Points; Meteors Badly Outclassed

COACH John "Jake" Jamieson trotted out a powerful, smooth-working basketball machine at Varsity last night as his Golden Bears swept into an early lead in the Edmonton Men's Senior Basketball League by routing the Y.M.C.A. Meteors 45-23 in the opening game of the season.

The students took command of play from the opening whistle and were never headed. They piled up a 6-1 lead in the opening canto, jumped it to 16-7 at half time, were leading 33-19 as the third quarter ended and wound up with 45-23 margin of victory.

"JAKE" JAMIESON

His Bears appear headed for a great season

The current edition of the Golden Bears appears to be the strongest to come out of the University of Alberta in some time. Fast, tricky and well-balanced, Coach Jamieson has moulded them into a smooth-working aggregation that will be hard to beat in both city and inter-collegiate competition.

Sam Muscovitch led the students' attack with a 10-point performance that was high for the evening. Al Dobson and Jack Stokes were next in line with six. But the feature of the scoring was the fact that every Varsity player tallied during the evening.

Frank Richards and Eric Smith shared scoring honors for Meteors, each clicking for eight.

LINEUPS AND SCORERS:

Varsity—Dobson (6), Moscovitch (10), Cameron (4), Stokes (6), Younie (3), Shillington (3), Pa[illegible] (5), Reike (4), McElry (4).

Meteors—Clarke (4), Richard (8), Smith (8), Brown, H. Richards (1), McPeake, Russell (2).

Edmonton Skip Remains Unbeaten Calgary 'Spiel

CALGARY, Jan. 18—Only four skips out of the 62 that started play in the 35th annual bonspiel of the Alberta branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club remained unbeaten when the second day's program terminated late last night at Calgary. They were Harold Ritchie, Edmonton; J. S. McDiarmid and Harry Wells, Calgary club, and L. R. Gaudin of Mirror.

During Tuesday's play Billy Rose, Sedgewick, Bill Cheyne, North Hill club, William McClaws, Bassano and W. Watson, North Hill, went down to defeat for the first time.

Rose and Cheyne clashed twice with Rose winning the first game and Cheyne the second. Watson lost out to Patterson of High River, while McClaws lost to J. S. McDiarmid, and later to Jimmy Hill, both of the Calgary club.

RITCHIE HOT

Ritchie enjoyed a great day with a 12-9 decision over W. C. Cooper, Nanton in the Birks and 11-10 win over Len Hill, Glencoe Club in the Imperial Motors. The latter victory advanced him into the eights.

Rose advanced in the Imperial Motors with a 13-5 win over Cheyne.

The Sedgewick skip made a gallant but unsuccessful bid for honors against Cheyne in the Alberta Pacific Grain. It took 13 ends before the North Hill rink won. Rose failed to take enough ice and his draw on the extra end was not only short, but wide.

CITY BADMINTON TOURNEY OPENS ON JANUARY 26

The "birds" are taking an awful batting around these days as Edmonton badminton players prepare for the annual city tourney which opens at the Inglewood Club on Thursday, January 26.

New interest has been injected into the men's singles event with the announcement that George Roberts will not defend his championship this year. This throws it wide open to half a dozen players and promises the keenest sort of competition.

Miss Peggy Aitken will defend her city singles title, but will pair up with her sister in the doubles event.

[illegible] this year's tourney has also aroused wide spread interest. This section is for players who have [illegible] a tourney and assures them of meeting competition that is not over their heads.

Entries will close at the Inglewood Club on the night of Tuesday, January 24.

BOSTON JUMPS N.H.L. LEAD WITH 2-1 TRIUMPH

LUDWIG MAY STOP CLAYTON FRIDAY NIGHT

King Kong Clayton's great strength has carried him through on an undefeated drive in the middleweight wrestling tournament being promoted here. He has scored triumphs twice to maintain a lead in points but the brakes are expected to be suddenly effective. The ebony man meets Otto Ludwig at the Memorial hall Friday.

Ludwig is the German grappling ace who made such an auspicious debut here last Friday. Clayton and Ludwig will be bracketed in one of the feature bouts on Friday's tournament card.

While wrestling here only once, Ludwig has proven himself to be main event timber. He is rugged, strong and decidedly unorthodox, but it is because he is such a wrestler that the mat dopester expects him to topple Clayton.

Too, it will be a more decisive test for Ludwig. Against the powerful Clayton, Ludwig will have to work at full speed. He has a precarious journey over the 45-minute route and the best of dopesters have been proven wrong—many a fan faithful will hope so—for a shellacking to Ludwig would be right down their alley.

Further good mat news is the entry of Pat O'Dowdy who hails from Portland, Ore., and who is a rugged gent. O'Dowdy will be expected in Edmonton about Friday, Jan. 27. He writes in his letter of entry a flowing and colorful account of himself and if he is half as good as he writes, then he's tops. In other bouts Friday, George Hartay will meet Gust Johnson while opening the card will be Darby Melnyk against Jack Jackson. The first bout will start at 8:30 p.m.

VICTORIAS BOOM

The Victoria Cafe trundlers went to work in earnest to set a new season's record for a single high game in the Senior 10 Pin League at the Recreation Alleys last night when four of the team went over the 200 mark to pile up a sensational total of 1155 points. The previous high single game was 1132 rolled by Noble Electric.

Feature of the Victorias' big game was the pin-smashing done by H. Maday. He bowled scores of 201, 220 and 256 for a total of 677—high three-game mark for the league last last night. His game of 256 tied for high single honors with George Gerald of the Rialtos. Victorias took three games straight from the Safeway Stores.

Simons Cigars took two out of three from Orange Crush, Noble Electric copped two out of three from Mike's while the Rialtos took two out of three from the Orphans in the other Senior 10 Pin League fixture.

FIVE PINNERS HOT

Some smart scores were hung up in the Mercantile Five Pin League, Yeatheard rolling a high single game of 324 that saved the Morgans from taking a three-straight drubbing by the G.W.G., and Clifford rolling a high three-game total of 395 that played a big part in the Royal Canucks' three-straight win over Dawson Mines. He had games of 309, 276 and 316.

Goodridge turned in a high single game of 310 for the Theatre Five Pin League as his Princesses scored straight wins over the Avenue team. Lieberman of the Rialtos had the high two-game total for the league of 462

High single and three-game marks for the other leagues in action last night are:

Tea Time—Finley 220-396.
Insurance—McKee 281-493.
Government Mixed—Langlois 270; Cochrane 664.
Swift's 10 Pins—Winkelaar 214; Nisbet 609.
Junior C.W.L.—Fagan 224-547.

Young Peoples' Mixed—Truscott 293-731.

Canadians Triumph In Juvenile Game

Canadian juveniles emerged from a regular league fixture last night with a 4-2 verdict over the luckless Crusaders. The game was played at 119 street.

Krushoff gave Crusaders the lead in the initial period but goals by Pyher and Gibson wiped out the lead before the period ended. Ryley took Krushoff's pass at the start of the second canto to tie up the game but Aitken shoved Canadians out in front again. Carney added the fourth Canadian marker in the final period. Pringle, Carney and Martin were credited with assists on the Canadian goals.

Two-Ton on the Prowl

Winner over "that bum pneumonia" and a fair list of scrappers, Two-ton Tony Galento is on the prowl again. He thinks he ranks closer to top contender than Czar Mike Jacobs is willing to place him. Maybe that funny look on his face is bewilderment at the screwy boxing set-up or just plain yearning for a glass of beer. Running beside Tony is his manager, Joe Jacobs (no relation to Mike), but just for photographic effect. Joe doesn't do anything near that strenuous. And neither does Two-ton if he can get out of it. We almost forgot—Tony is on the left.

There will be solemn rites dedicating baseball's hall of fame, exhibition games by the half dozen and untold speeches about the healthy influence of baseball.

Getliffe's Marker Downs Maple Leafs

Eddie Shore, Red Horner Tangle in Dynamite Laden Initial Stanza; 16,000 Fans Jam Into Boston Arena

BOSTON, Jan. 18—Ray Getliffe's third-period goal broke up a deadlocked game and gave Boston Bruins a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs in last night's only National Hockey League encounter.

The victory before an overflow crowd of 16,000 persons, strengthened Boston's hold on first place in the league, four points above New York Rangers. It left the Leafs in fourth place.

HORNER SHORE

Gordie Drillon gave Toronto the lead early in the opening period when he slapped home Syl App's rebound. Boston's Sauerkraut line from Kitchener, Ont., got back the goal in the same period after penalties left Leafs playing four men against Boston's five. Milt Schmidt caged the rebound of Porky Dumart's angle shot.

LONG PASS

After a scoreless second period, Getliffe registered from five feet out on a long forward pass that Flash Hollett shot in from the left side of the Toronto blue line.

ROUGH PLAY

Rough play spotted the opening period, with Boston's Eddie Shore and Red Horner of Toronto adding to the fireworks by an exchange of punches after a bumping match. Both drew major penalties.

Before that, Roy Conacher had shown them the way to the penalty box for tripping. It was while he was off that Drillon rang up Toronto's only goal.

Boston: Brimsek; Portland, Shore; Schmidt; Dumart, Bauer. Subs: Cowley, Sands, Getliffe, Clapper, Crawford, Hollett, Weiland, Hill, Conacher, Pettinger.

Toronto: Broda; McDonald, Hamilton; Apps; Davidson, Drillon. Subs: Romnes, Kelly, Jackson, Horner, Kampman, Chamberlain, Metz, Parsons, Mann.

Referee: Mickey Ion; linesman: Bill Cleary.

Second Period: Scoring, none. Penalty: Horner.

Third Period: 3 Boston, Getliffe (Hollett), 13.12. Penalties: None.

Ottawa Tries Five-Man Hockey

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—Five-man hockey will be given a trial this season in the newly-formed Ottawa intermediate city league, it was decided at an organization meeting of the loop Tuesday night.

The new idea of playing five-man hockey—goalie, one defenceman and three forwards, will be used throughout the regular playing season but the league will revert to the six-man game in the playoffs.

Our Boarding House Major Hoople

THE CARDS SAY THAT YOU ARE TRYING TO PUT OVER A FINANCIAL DEAL, MAJOR HOOPLE, BUT IT WILL NOT BE MUCH OF A SUCCESS — A GREAT SURPRISE IS IN STORE FOR YOU — A STRANGER IS COMING INTO YOUR LIFE — HE SEEMS CLOSE TO YOU — A FORGOTTEN RELATIVE, PERHAPS — I SEE GREAT RICHES, BUT SOMETHING SEEMS TO STAND IN THE WAY!
THAT NEW BOARDER'S TRYING TO TAKE A SQUINT AT THE MAJOR'S FUTURE — THAT FINANCIAL DEAL SHE MENTIONED SOUNDS LIKE THE ONE HE'S BEEN TRYING TO SELL ME ON. BUT I TOLD HIM I WAS POSITIVELY NOT INTERESTED!
YEH — TH' LAST TIME I ADVANCED HIM A COUPLE OF BUCKS I HAD TO KIDNAP HIS STORE TEETH BEFORE I COULD MAKE HIM PAY UP!

Crew Of British Steamer Rescued From Fire At Sea

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 18—Lloyd's reported today the steamship Waziristan rescued the crew of the 2,733-ton British freighter Ulmus after fire had caused the men to abandon the ship near here early this morning. The Waziristan, also British owned, picked up the 14 men from a lifeboat shortly after receiving an SOS from the burning vessel and brought them to Gibraltar for treatment of minorinjuries. The cause of the fire was not explained.

LET U. S. PAY FOR HIGHWAY, MEMBER SAYS

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—The United States needs the Alaska highway. Canada cannot afford it, British Columbia cannot afford it. Let the United States pay for it.

Mrs. George Black, (Independent Conservative Yukon) made these suggestions in the commons last night.

The white-haired, smiling "girl of the Golden North" intimated that the highway was needed most by the United States for war purposes.

For this reason Canada should co-operate, for if the United States were at war, Canada would be at war.

If Canada were at war, the United States would be at war. They would not permit foreigners to land on Canadian soil. Canada would resist any attempt of foreigners to strike through her at the United States.

SPINSTER, 102, TRUE TO VOWS MADE IN 1861

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18—Miss Alice Fazende, 102-year-old survivor from another era, died yesterday, true to a 78-year-old pledge of spinsterhood made when war called her sweetheart. It was in 1861, shortly after her debut, that her fiance marched away with the Washington artillery to fight for the confederacy. She told him she would "wait forever," would never wed if he did not return. The young artilleryman died in action. "Miss Alice" kept her pledge.

Five Arrested On Robbery Charges In Toronto City

TORONTO, Jan. 18—Five men, arrested in a raid on an apartment house yesterday, today were charged in police court with eight of the nine early morning robberies committed by a gang in a grey car Monday.

A sixth man, Ernest Kirk, 43, was later arrested in another raid and charged with retaining stolen goods. Police said they recovered nearly $6,000 worth of loot taken in Toronto robberies.

Charged with burglary in connection with Monday's 77-minute crime wave are Joseph Huntley, 23, Hubert Hiscock, 24, Stewart Rowe, 19, John Nixon, 19 and Frank Case, 22.

Mayor Telford's Co-Operative Plan Given Approval

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18—A co-operative plan, announced by Mayor Lyle Telford last Thursday by which unemployed could produce their own food, clothing and other necessities from surplus products of Vancouver and the nearby Fraser valley district, has received unanimous approval of city aldermen.

The aldermen, meeting in civic social service committee, yesterday authorized Mayor Telford to name a committee to draw up preliminary plans for the scheme. The mayor said the committee would probably include a number of prominent Vancouver business men whose aid he was enlisting.

Constable Dies In Hospital Of Bullet Wound

MONTREAL, Jan. 18. — Constable Lucien Bourgela, 42-year-old officer wounded in a gunfight a week ago with a bandit whom he killed, died early today in hospital.

The gun battle occurred Jan. 10 when Bourgela fought it out with the bandit, later identified as 24-year-old Victorien Perrault, frightened in an attempt to hold up an elderly woman storekeeper.

The bandit was the first to find the mark, hitting Bourgela in the chest. But the police officer cooly kneeled on the icy sidewalk, took aim, and two of his six shots hit Perrault. One slug struck Perrault in the right side of the chest and the other directly over the heart. It was the first time that Bourgela, a 10-year man, had been injured on duty. His widow and four children survive.

GOEBBELS NOW BACK AT WORK IN NAZI CAUSE

Far-Reaching Changes Are Made In Hitler's Official Family

By LOUIS LOCHNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Rumors of far-reaching changes in the Nazi administration involving such men as Field Marshal Goering, Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels and others, were current in Berlin today.

They coincided with the return to his desk in the propaganda ministry of Goebbels after nearly a month's illness. Official sources declined to confirm or deny them.

According to these reports, circulated by men usually in a position to know, Goering will shortly become vice-chancellor and minister of war. Both posts have been vacant for some time—the vice-chancellorship since Franz Von Papen, its last holder, was made special ambassador to Austria after the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss in 1934, and the war ministry since the resignation of Field Marshal Werner Von Blomberg in February, 1938.

Goering now is chief of the four-year economic self-sufficiency plan and air minister, in addition to holding numerous lesser posts. The additional appointments would make him more conspicuously than ever Germany's No. 2 man.

BRITAIN GAINS ON REICH IN PLANE OUTPUT

Germany At Limit Of Capacity To Produce Expert Avers

By TED FARAH

Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—Germany has reached the limit of its capacity to produce warplanes and Great Britain is rapidly catching up with her, Lewis C. Ord said last night following his arrival from London on the French liner Ile De France.

The man who will engineer production of bombing planes in Canada for the British air ministry spoke freely both on and off the record for The Canadian Press, and was frank in declaring it would be slow work gearing industries in the Dominion to the intricate task of turning out modern flying machines of war.

SERVE AS MANAGER

Ord, in his 50's, tall and quiet-spoken, has left an important executive post in the British air ministry to serve as general manager of Canadian Associated Aircraft, the group of six firms in Canada which have contracted to fill orders for bombing planes for the Royal Air Force. He will proceed immediately to Montreal to assume his duties in co-operation with Paul F. Sise head of C.A.C., and representatives of the component firms.

Germany, acknowledged the world's premier power in the air, has no spare labor, no spare foreign exchange and is running its aircraft industry wide open, said Ord. The third Reich could not step up its warplane production without making a severe sacrifice in some other direction, which would upset its national economy. The population has barely enough food to live on the way things are, he said.

"Such is far from the case with us," he added.

Work On Planes To Start In Few Weeks

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—Work on bombing planes for the British Air Force will start in Canada within a few weeks and continue through this year and next, Lewis C. Ord said on his arrival from England today.

The air expert who will take over as general manager of Canadian Associated Aircraft Limited, did not name the type of ship to be built here, but said the machine has been flown in England for about a year. An English factory employing 11,000 men would begin production shortly before Canadian output started, he said.

MAGNIFICENT SHIPS

Saying air regulations prevented him from naming the type to be built in Canada, he added, "I can tell you this, they are magnificent ships. You remember the Vickers' record flight from Egypt to Australia recently? Well, I think these ships could do an even better job."

The new ships in all probability would be flown across the Atlantic when completed, he said.

"We're delivering them in Canada to the British air ministry. We're delivering them in flying condition. Nothing has been said about crating them for ocean transport. I think they'll be flown across the Atlantic, which will be quite easy for them."

West's Members Score Government for Pomp In Face of Hardships

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—"The prime task of this parliament is to make sure that democracy does not fail," said John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, speaking in the debate on the speech from the throne in the house of commons Tuesday.

If democracy was a government of the people by the people and for the people, he said, it should give the people what they wanted. The first thing they wanted was jobs and they should all be given jobs.

After they had jobs they would want higher wages and they should get higher wages. In a country able to produce $3,000 worth of goods for every person each year it was ridiculous that many people should work for less than $800 a year.

The people would also want equitable prices and they should have them. The government had done one commendable thing this year in setting the price of wheat at 80 cents a bushel. As it was, 80 cents was too little and the farmers would not carry on unless they received more, but it was better than nothing.

Cost of the 80-cent price to the government, however, would be raised either by taxation or borrowing and that was fundamentally unsound. There should be some other way of obtaining the money. The people could not stand more taxation or more debt.

Constant complaints about constitutional limitations, said Mr. Blackmore, led to the impression the government was trying to convince the people nothing could be done without changes in the British North America Act and then steal away from the provinces some of their rights.

"If the changes in the act are as the Prime Minister indicated Monday," he said, "then neither the province that I represent (Alberta) nor any other province that I know of are prepared to grant those changes."

Conservative leader Manion said there had to be a basic change but neither he nor the Prime Minister indicated what the change would be, the Social Credit leader continued. The government apparently did not know what to do or lacked the courage to do anything.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—Effect control of financial institutions and monopolistic enterprises is the only remedy for conditions of economic distress in Canada, a C.C.F. amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, proposed in the House of Commons Tuesday, declared.

The amendment was moved by J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the party, and seconded by its latest recruit, P. J. Rowe, member for Athabasca and a former Social Crediter.

This amendment follows the amendment, moved Monday by Conservative leader Manion which declared the government had failed to appreciate conditions in the country and take steps to remedy them. The C.C.F. motion goes on to suggest the remedy. Both amount to motions of want of confidence.

Woodsworth said the ceremonies of the opening of parliament were far from a picture of the real life of Canada. There was altogether too much gold braid and "social fuss" in evidence.

If parliament were held in different parts of the country each year the cabinet ministers and civil servants would get a better idea of what Canada really was like.

"We are apt to get a false set of values in the capital," he said. "In fact I think Canada is getting top-heavy."

Thousands of good Canadians on western farms were without means, without hope and unable to obtain relief, Mr. Woodsworth said. There were 50,000 ex-service men on relief, enough to make two army divisions. Thousands of transients were being fed daily in soup kitchens.

Most elaborate arrangements were being made for the visit of the King and Queen. Mr. Woodsworth said Their Majesties should be given a dignified but simple reception. "Lavish display need not be an indication of loyalty and lack of display does not mean disloyalty."

Mr. Woodsworth read newspaper accounts of lavish display at social functions in Ottawa and compared them with descriptions of poverty-ridden homes in Manitoba.

SOCIETY HEARS MORE AID FOR ANIMALS HERE

Officer J. Jones, of Humane Association, Reports Progress

Improvement in the conditions under which cattle, sheep and hogs are transported by truck from farm and country shippers to market at packing houses and stock brokers in Edmonton, was reported by Horace J. Jones, humane officer, in his report to the Alberta Humane society at their annual meeting, held Tuesday under the chairmanship of President Mrs. A. R. Walsh.

"Truckers have discontinued the practice of transporting mixed loads—such as cattle with sheep or hogs—without partitioning the various kinds off from each other. Bedding is now supplied in all trucks and under the bedding sand or cinders are placed to enable the animals to get a footing," Officer Jones reported.

NO CRUELTY

He reported too, that although he had kept careful surveillance at the Exhibition, Spring Show, Dogs and Poultry Shows he had found no sign of any cruelty of any kind. An attempt had been made to regulate the handling of live animals and fowl at the market.

A total of 23,157 animals, consisting of 1,342 horses, 3,575 cattle, 15,840 hogs and 2,400 sheep were inspected by Officer Jones during the past year. He warned 207 persons for improper practises, ordered that 65 horses be taken off the streets because they were being worked in an unfit condition, and destroyed 2,000 animals—mostly cats and dogs.

SIX SUMMONSED

Six persons, who failed to heed warnings were summonsed on charges of cruelty. Five of these were convicted and fined and the other was dismissed with a warning from the magistrate. This is the third year that Officer Jones has acted as Humane Officer.

Election of officers for the Society for the coming year will take place at a meeting to be held next week.
